THE WAR.

The British Cabinet Meeting on Intervention.

A "Strong Appeal" to be Made to Prussia in Favor of Peace.

All Hope of Russian Interference Dissipated.

Utter Failure of M. Thiers' Mission.

The Emperor Alexander Declines to See Him.

The Siege, Bombardment and Surrender of Strasbourg.

GALLANTRY OF THE DEFENSE.

Exposure of the Corruptione of the Imperial Regime.

Marshal Lebeuf on the Condition of the French Army.

He Dared Not Tell the Emperor France Was Not Ready.

INTERVENTION.

The British Cabinet Meeting—An Effort to Save Paris Probable—A Strong Appeal to Prussia—Apprehensions of the Designs of Russia—M. Thiers' Mission—The Constituent Assembly.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The English Cabinet meets in council today, after an unusually long holiday. The county had became impatient of their inaction, while a generous ally of twenty years was struggling in the last agony, and the Government has to move or be driven ignominiously from power.

PROBABLE ACTION.

As I stated in my dispatch of Wednesday, it will adopt the former alternative, and take immediate steps to try to prevent the destruction of Paris. Such a catastrophe, if it were permitted, would dishonor England even more than France.

The course of the Cabinet is indicated by the leader in the London Times of this morning.

"It cannot," says the Times, "redound to our honor to express an opinion without any intention of enforcing it. It cannot, in the judgment of any one, redound to our glory to abstain from expressing an opinion when one is demanded of us, because we may find ourselves differing from a powerful neighbor."

Mr. BRIGHT's speech, recently delivered at Greenock, Scotland, about Alsace and Lorraine, is equally significant. R.

GREAT BRITAIN TO "APPEAL" TO PRUSSIA.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—It has been determined by the Cabinet to make a strong last appeal to Prussia to consent to peace in consideration of the destruction of the fortresses of Alsace and Lorraine without dismembering France.

FEARS OF RUSSIA.

It is rumored that the position of England is taken in apprehension of the warlike movements of Russia, which occasion a disinclination to see the power of France too much broken.

DISSATISFACTION ANTICIPATED.

The Press expects little good from the Cabinet meeting to be held today, on the subject of foreign affairs. "The result," says one of the journals, "must dissatisfy the belligerents, and please nobody."

M. THIERS' MISSION.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg reports that the CZAR consented to receive M. THIERS only at a private interview and in his capacity as a private individual.

TOURS, Sept. 30.—It is reported that the foreign ambassadors met today in consequence of the receipt of important news from M. THIERS.

THE CONSTITUENT ASSEMBLY.

The Government are considering the question of ordering elections for the Constituent Assembly in October, and it is understood that the majority of the Ministers are in favor of the plan.

GERMAN DISCUSSION OF PEACE TERMS.

COLOGNE, Sept. 30.—The Gazette, today, publishes the views of several correspondents on the question of the terms of peace. The writer, while admitting that the prevailing tongue in Alsace is German, call the editors to task for the statement that the same is true of Lorraine. One of these correspondents, who passed a great part of his life in that Province, says the German element is hardly perceptible, and the language is spoken only in a thin belt adjoining the frontier.

SYMPATHY.

ROME, Sept. 30.—The victorious Italians here now begin to show strong sympathy for the French Republican's.

Failure of M. Thiers' Mission to Russia—The Czar Declines to See Him—Military Preparations Still in Active Progress.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 30.—M. THIERS leaves to-morrow to return to Vienna, a sadder but a wiser man. His mission, which was to convince Russia of the danger of suffering Prussia to become too great by the annexation of territory and the éclat of uninterrupted victory over France, entirely failed. Notwithstanding the earnest solicitations of the veteran statesman for an interview with the Emperor, the latter politely and positively declined. GORTSCHAKOFF represented to M. THIERS the impossibility of recognizing in him any official authority, and the inexpediency of the Russian Government holding any official intercourse with a person whose avowed mission was to create distrust and enmity on the part of Russia toward a friendly Power. THIERS, since his interview with the Minister, has expressed his conviction that France has nothing to hope for from Russia.

REACTION IN GERMANY.

Unnecessary Humiliation of France—Arrests of Liberals—Results of the War—Absorption of the South in the Future Empire.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The Democrats in Germany are becoming loud in their protestations against the unnecessary humiliation of France.

Arrests continue to be made for the expression of such sentiments, and these arrests only give strength to the current, and cause a great dread of reactionary tendencies against Prussia among the German Liberals.

THE REPUBLIC.

Should the King proclaim himself Emperor, we shall see a republic in the fatherland before five years have expired. This is the universal testimony of Germany announced in Berlin.

ABSORPTION OF THE SOUTHERN STATES.

There have been, and probably there will be, no negotiations either for the entry of the South German States into the Northern Confederation, or for the extension of the North German Constitution to the Southern German States. R.

STRASBOURG.

Interesting Account of the Surrender—Condition of the City—The Losses Trifling—Alarms and Anxieties of the Inhabitants—Incidents.

STRASBOURG, Sept. 20.—At last, after weeks spent endeavoring to peer into Strasbourg from available points, through powerful field-glasses, the event all anticipated has come to pass, and we are actually within the walls of the celebrated fortress. My last letters informed you of the progress made in the siege, and notified you that resistance was impossible much longer. Two outposts were then taken and a breach made in the walls. Since then the offensive operations progressed with giant strides.

THE BOMBARDMENT.

Since the 24th, the bombardment has been terrific and almost incessant. The breach in the walls became large enough to admit an army. It became evident to everybody that storming was inevitable in a few hours unless stayed by a capitulation.

THE WHITE FLAG.

On Tuesday, the 27th, near 4 o'clock in the afternoon, the joyful sight of a white flag was beheld flying from the cathedral. This was speedily followed by the same welcome token of surrender from the citadel. A young Lieutenant of the Thirty-fourth Regiment was the first to discover the flag, and the firing instantly ceased. After the steady booming of the artillery a profound silence prevailed. Their general attention was called to the flags by an universal cheer which rose from one portion of the besieging lines, and was soon caught up and echoed throughout the entire army.

REJOICING OF THE SOLDIERS.

The scene which followed was indescribably exciting. Officers sprang to their feet and embraced each other, clasping hands. The men followed this example, and some actually cried with joy. The terms of the capitulation arranged have already been reported. Yesterday I was fortunately enabled to enter the city with a Baden regiment. The sight, which was impressive and sad at the same time, was relieved by the evident joy of the citizens at their release from their terrible condition of suffering and suspense.

MEETING OF THE TWO COMMANDERS.

The commanders of the two forces, Gens. WERDER and ULRICH, met for the first time yesterday, after the terms of capitulation had been arranged. The meeting took place just inside the gate on the east side. Gen. ULRICH advanced to Gen. WERDER, and with a voice much agitated said, "I have yielded to an irresistable force when further resistance was only a needless sacrifice of lives of brave men. I have the consolation of knowing I have yielded to an honorable enemy." Gen. WERDER, much affected, placed both hands on Gen. ULRICH's shoulders and said, "You fought bravely. You will have as much honor from the enemy's as you can have from your own countrymen." All arms were surrendered except the officers' side arms.

SCENES IN THE CITY.

A hasty examination of a portion of the city shows it has not suffered as much as was supposed from the bombardment. The exterior of the cathedral appears to be much injured, but not sufficiently so as to prevent its restoration in its original shape. Some fine houses in the Place de Cathedral are burned. Here and there the ruins of buildings show the dangers to which the city has been exposed. In the vicinity of the cathedral, on the east side of the city, the destruction was the greatest. A singular appearance was presented by the inhabitants busily engaged in removing straw, bags, rags, mattresses, and every conceivable means of stopping the unwelcome visitors from the windows. These defenses scattered in the streets, gave the appearance of a general removal of the inhabitants. The ruins of the theatre present a dismal appearance. Among the buildings destroyed was the fine Public Library. I am informed the books were previously removed, or at least, those of the greatest value.

SUFFERING OF THE INHABITANTS.

It does not appear that there had been much actual suffering for want of food, though the means were husbanded with the greatest care. The principal cause of anxiety was confinement and want of good water. Several cases of mortality are reported as the effect of the bombardment, but I am inclined to believe that the accounts are exaggerated. One family, consisting of a father, two daughters, two young sons and an infant, had taken refuge in the cellar of their house, when their residence was struck by a shell and all were destroyed. One old gentleman, a business merchant in Strasbourg for many years, informed me that his daughter was killed in the street. The general feeling of the people is one of great thankfulness for the capitulation.

GEN. ULRICH AND CITIZENS.

The reports that are spread charging Gen. ULRICH with brutality are destitute of foundation. His conduct toward the citizens was marked with the greatest humanity and consideration. It is a matter of congratulation that no irreparable damage has been done to this splendid and interesting city.

IMPERIAL CORRUPTION.

Revelations of the Great Mexican Speculation and Napoleonic Swindle—Profits of the Duc de Morny and His Mistresses—The Magistracy of the Empire—Private Life of Napoleon.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—We are likely to have new light thrown on the Jecker operations in Mexico, by documents found in the Tuileries.

It was always suspected that Duc DE MORNY made immense sums by them. It appears that evidence of the fact has now turned up.

It will probably also appear that DE MORNY's mistresses had large slices, for two of them suddenly became millionaires about that time.

THE MAGISTRACY OF THE EMPIRE.

The incorruptible character of the Magistracy under the Empire, so much vaunted by the majority in the Corps Legislatif, will be well illustrated on the trial of that judicial hack, DEVIENNE.

The Republic may not suit the temperament of the French people, but it does the world good periodically in sweeping the Augean stables of monarchical and imperial corruption.

It turns out that the Imperial organ, Le Situation, is the property of, or is supported by, M. ROUHER. It is curious that the greatest enemy of the journalists should always be starting newspapers. R.

THE UNEARTHED DOCUMENTS.

TOURS, Sept. 30.—A great number of the private documents belonging to the Emperor, which were recently seized at the Tuileries by the officers of the new Government, have just been made public here in the columns of the official journal of the Republic. Many noted persons under the old regime are implicated in the scandals.

DISMISSAL OF DEVIENNE.

The Provisional Government at Paris has already dismissed M. DEVIENNE, the President of the Cour de Cassation, he having been shown to be mixed up in the scandalous transactions of the Ex-Emperor and MARGUERITE BELLANGER.

THE MEXICAN OPERATIONS.

The Jeckel correspondence, in relation to Mexico, was unearthed, implicating the Duc DE MORNY and others high in the Emperor's confidence.

NAPOLEON'S PRIVATE LIFE.

Beside these there were found a letter from PERSIGNY to NAPOLEON, proving the existence of a black tribunal; another from the Queen of Holland, written directly after the battle of Sadowa, warning the Emperor against the very events now occurring. Altogether the disclosures thus far made in regard to the private life of NAPOLEON have substantiated all the charges that the opposition ever made; and it is thought the next lot, soon to be published, will be still more scandalous.

GENERAL OPERATIONS.

Insubordination in the French Ranks—Movements of the Prussians—German Losses Concealed.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—A telegram just received from Tours contains the following news:

THE FRENCH ARMY.

There is still considerable insubordination in the French Army. The officers are apparently unable to prevent disorder and violence among the raw and undisciplined soldiers. Severe examples have been made.

ORLEANS AND LYONS.

The Prussians have not yet arrived at Orleans. They have desisted from their westward march, and seem to be concentrating around Paris. The reported movement of the Prussians on Lyons is also untrue.

PRUSSIAN LOSSES.

The French say the Prussian losses since the war began, and particularly at the investment of Paris, have been so immense that the German authorities have taken care to conceal the facts from the newspapers.

MEZIERES.

The Times correspondent, writing from Luxembourg, says Mézières is very strong, but it was not thought it could hold out.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The Prussians evacuated Rambouillet, seventeen miles southwest of Versailles, on Thursday, and have occupied Dourdan, eighteen miles southwest of Versailles, and it is reported that they have also reached Thivernal and Grigneville, in the Department of Seine-et-Oise.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—It is said that the French repulsed the Prussians at Mantes.

THE FRENCH DEFENSE.

Organization in the Departments—All Organizations Under the Control of the Minister of War—Economy in the Financial Department.

TOURS, Sept. 30.—The Government here will issue a decree to-morrow which devolves upon the Prefects of departments the duty of organizing the mobilized National Guard, which is to be composed of all volunteers and all men between the ages of twenty-one and forty. Those between twenty-one and thirty-five years of age, who are subject to military regulations, are to remain in the mobilized Guard until the Minister of War calls for them. The decree is, in fact, a levy en masse. The Prefects are authorized to take the arms of the National Home Guard and transfer them to the mobilized Guard, and also to make demand for private arms wherever found. One article places the companies of France-Tireurs at the disposal of the Minister of War, and subjects them to military discipline in common with the mobilized Guard. A special article exempts telegraphic employes from military service.

FINANCIAL RETRENCHMENTS.

BRUSSELS, Sept. 30.—The Independance Belge says the new French Government has imposed a special tax of four centimes per number on all newspapers, domestic and foreign.

TOURS, Sept. 30.—Late advices from Paris announce that JULES SIMON has stopped the pensions to those dramatic writers who needed no assistance. Retrenchments have also been made in the public expenditure by the Minister of Finances, by cutting down the salaries of the Councillers of State and the Prefects of the departments. It is also proposed to reduce the pay of the Ministers. The members of the Provisional Government have announced that they do not wish any pay for their services. Counting upon the total suppression of the civil list and the Senate, it is expected the saving to the Government will reach fifty millions, as will be shown by a comparison of the first budget under the new Government, with the last under the Empire.

It is understood the pay of all the high functionaries will be regulated with a view to the strictest economy.

Marshal Lebeuf on the Condition of the Army—Discouraged in the French Service.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—According to a statement which appears in L'Union, Marshal LEBEUF, late NAPOLEON's Chief of Staff, sought death in the battles around Metz and displayed the most reckless valor. He admits that France was unprepared for war, and confesses that he did not dare to tell the Emperor before the war commenced what the state of the army was.

BEAUREGARD IN THE FRENCH SERVICE.

TOURS, Sept. 30.—The report is reiterated that Gen. BEAUREGARD, late of the Confederate Army, is in the French service. It is stated that he first accepted a Colonel's commission, but that he has since been appointed General, and is at present organizing troops in the south of France.

PARIS.

Confidence Reviving in the Garrison—The Garrison Building Barricades—A New Weapon—King William Makes a Personal Reconnoissance of the French Lines.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—Additional engagements have taken place around Paris since last reports, in which the French are reported to have obtained fresh successes.

CONFIDENCE RETURNING.

Confidence is returning in Paris. It is vaguely asserted that some positions occupied by the Prussians have been recovered. Possibly MANDLAY's recapture of Villejuif is referred to. The Prussians were continually coming nearer. They were engaged throwing up works at Bagneux, and on Mendon Terrace. The works will face Forts Vanores and Issy, on the south of Paris.

BARRICADES.

Later advices from Paris announce that the construction of barricades is being vigorously pushed under the supervision of HENRI ROCHEFORT and GUSTAVE FLOURENS. The Mobiles have been armed with a new and dreadfully destructive engine. The invention has just been made, and is kept a profound secret. Greater results are expected from this weapon than from the famous mitrailleuse.

FRENCH SUCCESSES.

TOURS, Sept. 30.—Later advices from Paris mentions a series of successful engagements around the city. The ardor of the besieged had been much increased by these victories. The new breech-loading cannon had been placed on the ramparts. There are no signs of the enemy in this direction yet.

LYONS, Sept. 30.—Arrangements have been made, which if successfully carried out, will give us news from Paris every day.

ROUEN, Sept. 29, via TOURS, Sept. 30.—Another balloon from Paris landed near Mantes today. The courier, with a multitude of letters and packages, has gone forward to Tours.

THE PRUSSIANS.

BERLIN, Sept. 30.—A dispatch from Ferrieres, the Royal Prussian head-quarters, states that on Thursday the King reconnoitred the French lines from St. Denis to Romainville.

MISCELLANEOUS.

State of Lyons—Internal Enemies of France—Clusret and the Red Republicans—The Regiment Subsiding.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The state of Lyons continues to cause great uneasiness. CLUSERET is the greatest enemy France has just now; he creates divisions, while united she might still repel the invaders.

THE REGIMENT SUBSIDING.

LYONS, Sept. 30, via TOURS, Sept. 30.—The political excitement has entirely subsided. A few additional arrests of CLUSERET's adherents have been made. Lyons is now more quiet, the factious agitation having partially subsided. The Government here have taken effectual measures to prevent the renewal of disturbances in that city.

THE LOIRE ARMY.

The Army of the Loire, which is now organizing, will be commanded by Gen. LA MOTTEROUGE.

AN ARRIVAL FROM STRASBOURG.

Gen. BILLARD, who escaped from Strasbourg in disguise, has reached Lyons.

ITALIAN AND SPANISH AID.

A number of Italian and Spanish volunteers are expected to arrive at Lyons. The weather continues warm and clear. The water in the rivers is so low that the Prussians easily wade across.

The German Blockade—False News Reports—A Gold Glut in London from the Absence of Foreign Demand.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The Bremen bark Tasso, which sailed from Philadelphia on the 19th of July for Hamburg, and which put into Stornoway, Scotland, on the 20th of August, as a port of refuge, sailed from the latter port today for Hamburg, notice having been received of the raising of the blockade.

CHERBOURG, Sept. 30.—The greatest part of the French fleet returned to this port today. Squadrons have been left in the North Sea and the English Channel sufficiently large to protect the French coast.

BERLIN, Sept. 30.—The town of Kehl is crowded with refugees from Strasbourg, awaiting permission to return to their city.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—Col. LESLIE goes as British Military Commissioner to the Prussian front.

INVENTED NEWS.

The news-rooms in London bulletin news daily from the scene of war; but their news has proved so untrustworthy that little attention is now paid to it. From these and similar irresponsible sources arise much of the false information telegraphed abroad.

A GOLD GLUT.

Gold is rapidly accumulating in the Bank of England in the absence of foreign demand.

CITY WAR NEWS.

The German War Fund Collections.

From the second official report of the Secretary of the German Patriotic Aid Societies, it appears that at present these societies are in operation in not less than fifty-six towns in the United States, forming the General German Patriotic Aid Union of the United States, the central organization of which is located in this City. These different societies are located in the following cities:

New-Jersey—Newton, Elizabeth, the five township of Hudson County, Fort Lee, Laurel Hill, Egg Harbor, Newark.

Pennsylvania—Erie, Honesdale, Scelyville, Reading, Greencastle, Johnstown.

Missouri—St. Louis, St. Charles, Cape Girardeau, Florena, Lincoln.

Kansas—Leavenworth, Topeka.

Arkansas—Fort Smith.

Nebraska—Omaha, West Point, Douglas County, Washington County, Sarpy County.

Iowa—Des Moines.

Illinois—Alton, Joliet.

Ohio—Cleveland, Toledo, and Hays City; also, Providence, R. I., Wyoming, and Lawrence, Mass.; Mobile, Ala.; Nashville, Tenn.

These fifty-six societies are represented at the central station in Berlin, by Mr. FREDERICK KAPP, formerly of this City, and the collections up to date amount to $759,849 23, of which $182,000 have been transmitted to Berlin; while $4,268 32 were paid to defray the expenses of the surgeons sent from this City to the German Armies. Miscellaneous expenses, $1,186; outstanding subscriptions, $650; deposited in bank, $11,721. Total, $153,849 23. The North German Consul-General has receipt-ed for $172,000 21, of which $40,000 were contributed by the general agency of German Patriotic Aid Societies in this City; $46,000 from St. Louis, $60,000 from California, 30,000 thalers from Baltimore, $20,000 from Chicago, &c.

The French National Subscription.

The French Subscription Committee has received from Nashville a check for $700, raised by twenty French residents in that city, assisted by their Irish fellow-citizens. They expect soon to be enabled to make another similar remittance. From Chicago it is reported that a first installment of $2,500 has been forwarded to Paris, which is to be followed by other remittances. From Fort Steele, Utah, Mr. LABALLE has received from Mr. GERARD, a sergeant in the United States Army, a United States five-twenty bond for $100. The French at Pittsburg are raising funds, and thus far have contributed $422.

WASHINGTON.

The Three Per Cents to be Retired—Preparations of the Secretary of the Treasury for the Approaching Session—Revenue Receipts of the Month and Quarter—Tax on Brokers' Sales.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Considerable inquiry having been made as to the manner in which the three per cents which are to be retired in lieu of the increased national currency will be withdrawn, your correspondent learns that they will be taken up in order of date of issue, those longest outstanding first. For instance, the first $2,000,000 called for will include all outstanding certificates of both denominations, $5,000 and $10,000, up to and including No. 246 of the $5,000 certificates, and up to and including No. 199 of the $10,000 certificates. The Secretary has not decided when he will call for them, but it will probably not be until after the payment of the November interests. They will be paid out of the current revenues of the Treasury in all probability.

THE CAMPAIGN IN NEW-JERSEY.

Hon. GEO. A. HALSEY, of New-Jersey, was here today, and gave a cheering report of the progress of the campaign in New-Jersey. He says the prospect in his own district is good; and he thinks that Gov. NEWELL will be elected without doubt in the Trenton district, which will be a gain of one. The colored vote, which amounts to several thousand in the State, will go solidly for the Republican ticket.

THE TREASURY DEPARTMENT.

The Secretary of the Treasury is preparing for the approaching session of Congress. He will to-morrow address the following letter to the First Controller, regarding the estimates for the next fiscal year, and for any deficiences for the current year which may appear necessary:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY, Oct. 1, 1870.

To E. W. Taylor, Esq., First Controller:

SIR: As the coming session of Congress will be a short one, it is important that any estimates for deficiences which may be required be submitted to the Secretary of the Treasury prior to the 15th of October. It is also desirable that any recommendation for legislation in aid of the service in any bureau shall be submitted at an early day as practicable prior to the commencement of the session. In making estimates for the next fiscal year or for deficiences the amount asked for should be limited to what is consistent with the necessities of the service. The regular estimates should be based upon existing laws, and should not exceed the appropriations made by Congress at its last session, and no additional appropriation should be asked for unless they are absolutely necessary. No recommendation for an increase of salary or expenditure, not authorized by law, will be included in the book of estimates. All such recommendations should be independent of the regular estimates, and form distinct subjects of consideration.

(Signed,) Very respectfully,

GEO. S. BOUTWELL, Secretary.

REVENUE RECEIPTS FOR SEPTEMBER.

The internal revenue receipts for the month of September, ending today, were $19,905,000 36, against $19,022,000 37 for the same month last year, being a decrease of $120,308 81, though nearly $4,000,000 more than for the corresponding month in 1868. The receipts for the quarter ending today are $61,776,895 38, against $49,631,000 00 for the same quarter in 1869, a gain of $9,145,895 94, and against $60,690,931 81, being a gain over that quarter of that year of $11,195,764 55. It is expected that the large reductions of special taxes which take effect to-morrow will at once show a very considerable falling off in receipts as compared with last year.

COMMISSIONER DELANO.

Commissioner DELANO was at his office today and resumed his official duties. His general health has greatly improved, but his arm is still somewhat disabled, though he can use it for writing his signature.

REDUCTION OF CITY RAILROAD FARE.

The city railroads here, as in other places, come down one cent to-morrow in their prices, in obedience to the reduction of the tax on gross receipts.

TAX ON BROKERS' SALES.

As a New-York journal has published the statement that the tax of one-twentieth of one per cent upon brokers' sales has been repealed, it may prevent those interested from being misled to say that the act of July 14, 1870, removing the tax of sales, except such taxes on sales as are by existing laws paid by stamps; the tax on brokers' sales being paid by stamps, falls within this exception, and therefore remains unchanged.

THE NEW-ORLEANS MAIL.

The manager of the New-Orleans and Galveston Steam-ship line has telegraphed to the Post-office Department, today, that the Health Officer at Galveston has agreed to permit the landing of mails from New-Orleans semi-weekly during the quarantine, and that they would recommence their trips on Monday. The temporary contract of the Mallory line, to carry the mails from New-York to Galveston, will cease after that date.

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

REVENUE SEIZURES.

Supervisor PERRY, of North Carolina, reports the seizure of eight boxes of manufactured tobacco in the Fourth North Carolina District, it being improperly stamped; also, at Wilmington, one barrel of whisky, 400 boxes of sardines and four boxes of manufactured tobacco, all improperly stamped. He also seized one horse and dray.

REVENUE REPORTS.

Acting Commissioner DOUGLASS has issued a circular letter to the officers of internal revenue, calling attention to the provisions of the act of 1864, to the effect that if all the reports are not rendered at the time required by the law and the regulations, no payments on account of salaries or commissions shall be made to such officers.

ECONOMY IN THE TREASURY DEPARTMENT.

Secretary BOUTWELL, in a circular issued today to the various bureau chiefs of his Department, instructs them, in making up their estimates of expenditures for the next fiscal year, to be particular to make them in accordance with the law, and not in any case to exceed the amount appropriated by Congress. Estimates for deficiences must be made with great care in this regard. No estimate for any increase of salary may be included in the regular book of estimates; but all such estimates must be submitted in a separate form for the consideration of the Secretary, and must be determined upon according to the circumstances governing each case.

SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES.

The Supreme Court of the United States will meet the first of October in continuation of the last December term, which will end the first Monday of next December, when a new term will commence. The call of the docket will be resumed at case No. 564.

WOMEN AS ATTORNEYS.

In 1869, Mrs. MYRA BRADWELL petitioned the Superior Court of Cook County, Ill., for a license as an attorney and counselor at law, but the case was certified to the Supreme Court of that State, which refused a license, on the ground of the married condition of the applicant, and said, in their opinion: "Whatever may be our individual opinion as to the admission of women to the Bar, we do not deem ourselves at liberty to exercise our power in a mode never contemplated by the Legislature, and inconsistent with the usages of the Courts of common law, from the origin of the system to the present day. This case will come before the Supreme Court of the United States next term, on a writ of error. Senator CARPENTER appears for the plaintiff.

THE CLAIMS' COURT.

The Court of Claims will meet on the first Monday of November.

THE REVENUE TAXES.

The terms of the Internal Tax laws passed last session, are so explicit concerning the repeal of the certain taxes on the 1st of October, that it is not considered necessary to issue any circular calling attention to them.

Taxes Repealed Today.

The following are the sections of the Tax bill passed at the last session of Congress, repealing certain taxes on and after the 1st of October,—this day:

On and after the 1st day of October next, the several taxes on sales, saving and excepting such taxes on sales as are, by existing laws, paid by stamps, and the taxes on sales of leaf tobacco, manufactured tobacco, snuff, cigars, foreign and domestic, distilled spirits and wines, imposed by said act, approved July 4, and the acts amendatory thereof, be and the same are hereby repealed.

On and after Oct. 1, next, the stamp tax imposed on "Schedule B" on promissory notes for a less sum than $100, and on "receipts for any sum of money or for payment of any debt, and the stamp tax imposed in "Schedule C" on canned and preserved fish, be and the same are hereby repealed. And no stamp shall be required upon the assignment of a mortgage where it or the instrument it secures has once been duly stamped. And the proprietors or proprietors named in "Schedule C," who shall furnish for their use, dies for stamps to be used especially for his or their own proprietary articles, shall be allowed the following commissions, namely: On amounts purchased at one time if not less than $50 nor more than $500, five per centum, and on amounts over $500, ten per centum on the whole amount purchased. Provided, that lucifer or friction matches may be removed from the place of manufacture for export to a foreign country without the payment of the tax or the affixing of stamps thereto, under such rules and regulations as the Commissioner of Internal Revenue may prescribe; and all provisions of existing laws inconsistent herewith are repealed.

On and after the 1st day of October next, the taxes imposed by the Internal Revenue laws now in force herein specified by the same are hereby repealed, namely: On articles in "Schedule A," the special tax on boats, barges and flats, on legacies and successions, on passports and on gross receipts.

The following are repealed next Spring:

"On and after the 1st of May, 1871, the special taxes imposed by the nineteenth section of the Internal Revenue act, approved June 30, 1864, and as amended by subsequent acts, are to be repealed; but this act shall not be held to repeal or in any way affect the special taxes imposed by the act of 1866, imposing taxes on distilled spirits and tobacco, and for other purposes, or the acts amendatory thereof."

The Late Judge Grier—Meeting of the Philadelphia Bar—Resolutions of Respect, &c.

From the Philadelphia Bulletin, Sept. 30.

At 11 o'clock this morning a meeting of the members of the Bar was held in the United States District Court-room, to take action relative to the decease of the late Ex-Judge of the Supreme Court, ROBERT C. GRIER.

Chief-Justice THOMPSON called the assemblage to order, and nominated Hon. Judge CADWALADER as President.

GEORGE H. HARDING and SAMUEL B. PERKINS, Esqs., were chosen Secretaries.

Upon taking the chair, Judge CADWALADER paid an eloquent tribute to the merits of the deceased, after which Hon. WM. M. MEREDITH offered the following series of resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, In the decease of years Hon. ROBERT COOPER GRIER, the one of the justices of the Supreme Court of the United States, and an esteemed citizen of the Commonwealth, died at his residence in Philadelphia on the 25th inst.

Resolved, That in the death of this eminent citizen, profound lawyer, and upright Judge, we recognize the loss of one who, by the unsullied purity of his judicial life, his noble works, and his erudition in the law, so united in maintaining beyond reproach the character of that Court of which he was so long a part, and where he contributed in an eminent degree to deepen and strengthen the great constitutional principles on which our republican institutions rest. The simple excellence of his private life, his unostentatious Christian character, his rare culture of mind, and the grave simplicity of his life, commend the memory of the deceased to our admiration, and his judicial services, to his State and country—extending through a period of thirty-seven years—give him the highest claim to the gratitude of his countrymen. Since he served so long and so faithfully, while his loss concerns the whole country, it is felt particularly in this his native State.

Resolved, That we mourn the death of Justice ROBERT COOPER GRIER as that of one we had large cause to say warm kindness and affectionate respect, a cause by all who were brought within the reach of his influence. At the same time, we desire to bear witness to his modesty and learning, his benevolent nature, his unprejudiced judgment, and his absorbing love for the right.

Resolved, That a committee be appointed by the Chairman of this meeting to secure the family of the deceased our deep sympathy with them in the loss they have sustained, and that a copy of these resolutions be presented to them.

Resolved, That the Chairman and Secretary be requested to transmit a copy of the proceedings of this meeting to the Chief-Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, and to the President Judge of this Circuit, with a respectful request that the same may be laid before their respective Courts.

Addresses were made by Ex-Judge PARSONS and Ex-United States Minister HENRY M. WATTS, after which the President appointed, as the Committee provided for in the resolutions, Ex-Judge Parsons, Hon. Wm. A. Porter, Hon. Wm. M. Meredith, Hon. H. M. Watts, Chief-Justice Thompson and Messrs. Harding and Wallace.

On motion the meeting then adjourned.

The High Bridge Reservoir.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Several years ago, it was stated publicly that the Croton Department had begun to build a new reservoir on the heights near High Bridge, in order to supply that portion of the island which lies above One Hundred and Twenty-fifth-street with water. Slowly the work progressed, and, after patient waiting, the inhabitants who had been dependent upon scanty wells and private reservoirs, began to hope that they were to have the blessing which the rest of the City had enjoyed for more than twenty years. The reservoir was completed a year ago, and ready for the reception of the water, but, strange to say, the pumping apparatus was not made ready in connection with it, and months elapsed before this was ready. Finally, the service-pipe was laid, the pumping-engines done, and the people who had been suffering through a season of unparalleled drouth, exposed to imminent danger from fire, and obliged to draw water, in some cases, from the distance of several miles, congratulated each other upon the prospect of an abundant supply of water. The engines began to pump and broke down! A second trial proved equally abortive, and the prospect of water in new abode as good as that which the mirage upon the desert offers to the traveler. Thousands of Philadelphia pumping-engines which have worked for years; in other places similar machines for pumping water have been operated successfully; but with these the engineers of the Croton Department seem to be unacquainted, and have hence been driven to experiments which suggest to ordinary minds serious doubts whether they comprehend the nature of the common pump.

While these sages speculate and experiment, the wells dry up, the people sicken and die from drinking bad water, and dust and dirt fill the air and lungs of the dwellers in Fort Washington, Washington Heights and Carmansville. The people, in deepair, are praying for rain, and would not regret even a second deluge which should drown engineers, contractors and red-tape officials in one vast and overwhelming flood. A THIRSTY SOUL.

THE FARRAGUT OBSEQUIES.

General Suspension of Business Throughout the City.

An Imposing Funeral Pageant.

Great Military and Civic Parade.

A Procession Two Miles in Length.

Decorations of Public and Private Buildings—The Remains Taken to Woodlawn Cemetery—The Final Interment—Scenes at the Grave.

The final honors paid to the remains of the late Admiral FARRAGUT in this City, yesterday, were worthy of the greatest naval hero of the age, and surpassed in their imposing character anything of the kind ever seen in this City, with the exception of the obsequies of the murdered President LINCOLN. It was unfortunate that the day for the funeral proved to be the most inclement of any experienced in the City for four months past, and it would, perhaps, have been better if the Committee that had the obsequies in charge had postponed the demonstration, as they advertised they should do, in case of a storm; but for some reason it was not done, and all the more credit is due to the citizen soldiery and civic bodies that, in spite of the pouring rain, joined in the procession, and carried out the programme as arranged by the Committee.

ARRIVAL OF THE REMAINS.

The remains of Admiral FARRAGUT arrived in this City yesterday morning by the Bristol steamer from Fall River, and were immediately transferred to a tug and taken to the sloop-of-war Brooklyn, lying in the Lower Bay. The casket was hoisted on board the sloop-of-war amid the roll of muffled drums and a dirge played by the Portsmouth Navy-yard Band, and the Brooklyn steamed directly up to the City, accompanied by the Pilot-boat Seneca, with members of the Common Council Committee on board, who had gone down to witness the transfer of the remains to the Government vessel. During the passage of the Brooklyn to the City the catafalque was erected, and as the steamer passed Fort Hamilton a salute was fired from the water battery, which was answered by the guns of the Brooklyn. A salute was also fired from the parapet at Fort Wadsworth. Vessels of all nationalities lying in the Bay placed their ensigns at half-mast, and the entire harbor presented a funereal appearance. When the Brooklyn arrived opposite Vesey-street, she were around, and, at the word of command from the officer of the day, her 300 men quickly ran aloft, and, as the bearers carried the casket to the side, the sailors manned the yards and stood immovable. The drums beat, the band played a solemn dirge, and the Committee of Escort stood with uncovered heads while the coffin was swung over the side to the deck of the Catalpa. A more impressive sight than this it would be difficult to conceive, and the driving storm, which, during this ceremony, was at its height, did not mar, but rather added to, its solemnity.

The marines and band having been transferred to the Police boat, and the Committee of Arrangements having embarked on the Catalpa, the latter started for the shore. Minute guns were then fired from the Brooklyn, and the pennant of Admiral FARRAGUT, which had been taken from the frigate, was hoisted at the bow of the tug. At 11½ o'clock the tug reached Pier No. 39, at the foot of Canal-street, upon which were drawn up the marines, who were to act as the firing party, and the officers of the Loyal Legion, the remainder of the Committee of Arrangements, and the officers and sailors who had served under Admiral FARRAGUT during the war.

The pennant of Admiral FARRAGUT was then draped about the casket, when the body was carried on shore and placed on the bier in charge of the bearers. The officers of the Brooklyn, the Committee of Arrangements, and the mourners took the places assigned them, the minute guns of the Brooklyn booming meanwhile, when the word was passed that all was in readiness for the march.

THE PROCESSION.

The procession commenced moving a little before 12 o'clock, amid a violent rain that had already drenched to the skin every person assigned a place in it, except those who rode in carriages. The escort to the remains having passed up Canal-street, took their places in the line of march according to the programme published in yesterday's papers. The procession moved in the following order:

Section of Police under command of Capt. COPELAND and Sergt. TUCK.

Band.

Grand Marshal ALEXANDER S. WEBB and aids.

United States Band from the Navy-yard, Brooklyn.

Following the band was a firing party of marines, and immediately after them followed the coffin, with the pennant of the deceased Admiral, borne upon the shoulders of eight seamen.

Twenty-five or thirty carriages, driven two abreast, containing numerous officers of the navy, who either knew the late Admiral in life, or had been brought into contact with him by duty.

His Secretary and the members of his family were the next in the procession, but rode with the blinds of their carriages closely drawn. After the carriages containing the above mourners followed several four-in-hands, the first of which contained Gov. HOFFMAN and members of his staff.

President GRANT came next, dressed in a plain suit of black, and leaning back in his carriage, so as to be almost invisible to the crowd lining both sides of the way. Secretary BELKNAP followed the President, and was in his turn followed by Collector MURPHY.

The Cuban representative, accompanied by Col

paratus, under command of Chief Engineer PERLEY.

PROMINENT PERSONAGES IN THE PROCESSION.

Besides President GRANT, Gov. HOFFMAN and others, mentioned above, there were in the procession, among others, the following gentlemen in carriages: Admiral Porter, Gen. Meade and staff, Gen. McDowell, Gen. Stone, Rear-Admiral Fletcher, Rear-Admiral Godon, Rear-Admiral Guitz, Gen. Sandford, Mr. Edwards Pierrepont, Acting British Consul; Marshal Sharpe, Thurlow Weed, Mayor Kalbfleisch, of Brooklyn; Mayor Shurtleff, of Boston; Gov. English and staff, of Connecticut; Ex-Gov. Clifford, of Massachusetts; the Mayor and several members of the Common Council of Albany, and the Mayors of Baltimore, Philadelphia and Newark.

INCIDENTS OF THE PROCESSION—DECORATIONS.

The procession was marshaled by Gen. ALEX. S. WEBB, assisted by the following aids: Gen. E. Tremaine, Gen. C. W. Darling, Gen. Carleton, Surgeon Jas. McMasters, U. S. N.; Gen. E. Opdyke, Lieut.-Com. Woodward, U. S. N.; Major E. S. Daniels, Major Rogers, Brig.-Gen. James F. Hall, Lieut. Wheeler, U. S. A.; Col. Alfred Wagstaff, Col. John Fowler, Col. C. A. Arthur, Col. W. C. Church, Gen. Kiddoo, J. H. Draper, Col. Broome, U. S. Marines; Col. H. C. Lockwood, Gen. McQuade, Capt. Wm. Ludlow, U. S. Engineers; Lieut. Henry Metcalfe, U. S. A.; Lieut. F. E. Camp, U. S. A.; Major E. H. Kent, and ten veteran officers and soldiers, now attached to the Custom-house in this City.

A noticeable feature in the Third Division was about 100 boys of the Union Home and School for Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans, in which institution the deceased Admiral took great interest, and of which Mrs. FARRAGUT is Vice-President. The deportment of the boys was soldierly, and reflected credit upon the drill instructor.

Mrs. FARRAGUT and her son, Lieut. LOYALL FARRAGUT, were in a landau, drawn by two brown horses, which was intended to have been open, but which the rain necessitated covering. The coffin was covered with a velvet pall, on which was the name of "FARRAGUT" in white letters on each side.

Crowds of people lined the steps of the houses and the edges of the sidewalks along Broadway, Fourteenth-street and Fifth-avenue. Had the weather been fine the sidewalks would have been choked, and pedestrians would have found progress through them slow and difficult.

The rain was constant, and at times drenching, but a great eagerness was shown to see every feature of the procession. There was scarcely a window that was not filled with ladies, upon each street, along the entire route.

On Broadway, Canal-street and Fifth-avenue, nearly all stores were closed, and the fronts of buildings were generally draped with mourning. On Canal-street, nearly every building was neatly festooned with mourning emblems.

In Broadway, the symbols of mourning were both numerous and elegant. The front of the store of NICHOLAS COWLESHAW presented an attractive appearance, with flags and anchors intermingled with crape.

In front of the Olympic Theatre was the motto, "We all mourn the loss of our nation's hero." At HALL, BLACK & CO.'s the gilt eagle above the portico was to be seen holding in its beak streamers and folds of crape and white satin. TIFFANY & CO.'s store, nearly opposite, was splendidly decorated.

A very fine display was made at Bible's. Over the entrance was a portrait of FARRAGUT, surrounded with crape, and on either side were the mottoes, "The Noblest Roman of them all." "After life's fitful fever he sleeps well." In front of ROCKWOOD's gallery, near Thirteenth-street, was a fine portrait of FARRAGUT, standing by the binnacle of his ship, glass in hand. At STEWART'S, GUSTIER & SON'S, and many other buildings equally notable, decorations were to be seen, but the lateness of the hour prevents us from making special mention of them.

LORD & TAYLOR'S place on Broadway and Grand-street, was closed, and the immense building completely draped in mourning. Just over the main door was a black picture on white linen, representing a white tomb-stone.

On the north-west corner of Fifth-avenue and Fourteenth-street, a large model of a ship, twenty feet long, was exhibited.

The Brevoort House was heavily draped with black and white linen, making a very fine effect.

The Club-house of the "Blossom" Association, No. 129 Fifth-avenue, was elaborately draped, each window and the entrance being festooned with black cloth, looped up with white rosettes. The balcony was covered with flags and between the lower windows a large imperial photograph of the old Admiral was suspended. A banner extended across the house bearing the following motto, "Fruits that blossom first will first be ripe." The general appearance was very handsome. The decorations cost some $800.

The store of NICOL & DAVIDSON, No. 688 Broadway, was tastefully draped in mourning. HAMLIN & Co., HELMBOLD & Co., TIFFANY, DEVLIN & Co., and many more leading merchants in Broadway, had their warehouses decorated with crape and other emblems of mourning.

There was a general suspension of business along the route of the procession, and, indeed, throughout the City. All the Government offices were closed, and the public buildings, both federal and municipal, displayed flags at half-mast, and had their walls draped in mourning.

All the Courts of the City were closed, and most of the Judges and a large portion of the members of the Bar joined the procession.

The following officers from the sloop-of-war Brooklyn composed the guard of honor to the remains:

Midshipman Porter, Midshipman Halladay, Midshipman Augur, Midshipman Richmond, Midshipman Hubbard, Midshipman Wood, Midshipman Abbott.

The procession was over two miles in length, and had it not been for the heavy and incessant rain, which gave to the pageant a drizzly and forlorn aspect, it would have been one of the most imposing and impressive spectacles ever witnessed in New-York.

The line of march was up Broadway to Fifth-avenue, through Fifth-avenue to Forty-ninth-street, and through Forty-ninth-street to Fourth-avenue, where the remains were transferred to the funeral car, in waiting to take them to Woodlawn Cemetery.

THE JOURNEY TO WOODLAWN.

The procession arrived at the corner of Forty-second-street and Fourth-avenue about two o'clock. At that hour the rain was pouring down in torrents, and the soldiers and citizens who composed it, were drenched with water. The train was under the charge of Mr. BUCKHOUT, Superintendent of the Harlem Road, and consisted of seven cars, including the funeral car. This was prepared by Mr. JOHN HARDY, Clerk of the Common Council, and consisted of a platform car with a canopy formed of American flags, mourning emblems and flags being tastefully entwined around it. The train was drawn by the engine "Governor," which was also decorated with mourning emblems. The first four cars were set apart for the band and the battalion of marines, while the sailors, who had borne the body from the foot of Vesey-street, were provided with accommodations on the funeral-car with the body. The remaining cars of the train were occupied by the municipal authorities, officers of the army and navy, the Grand Marshal and his aids, while the last car was set apart for the use of the President, Secretaries Robeson, Belknap and Creswell, Admiral Porter, Rear-Admiral Stringham, Commodores Pennock and Freligh, Admiral Smith, of the Washington Navy-yard; Drs. Foltz and Smith, of the navy; Lieut. Loyal Farragut, of the Fifth United States Artillery; Collector Murphy, Marshal Sharpe, Major Montgomery, Secretary of the Admiral; Rev. Dr. Montgomery, of the Church of the Incarnation, who was the officiating clergyman, and two officers representing the French fleet in the harbor.

ARRIVAL AT THE CEMETERY.

At 3:15 the train arrived at the station at Woodlawn, and in a few minutes all had disembarked and were ready to reform the procession for the final interment, despite the torrent of rain which continued to pour down. To this circumstance, also, must be attributed the small attendance of spectators; for with the exception of the platoon of police which was detailed for the protection of the remains, hardly a dozen persons besides those in the procession were present to do honor to the memory of the deceased. The grave being not much over a quarter of a mile from the railway depot, the march thither was made on foot, the coffin being again borne on the shoulders of the eight naval veterans who had fought under the Admiral. Immediately after alighting the order was given to form into line, and after the usual military evolutions the procession was set in motion. First came the platoon of Police. Then came Gen. WEBB, with his aides, Gens. C. W. DARLING, C. A. CARLTON, OPDYKE, J. F. HALL and Col. DELAFIELD. Next the escort of marines from the sloop-of-war Brooklyn, under the command of Col. BROOKS, a detachment from the receiving-ship Vermont, and the drum-corps from the Navy-yard. The Chaplain, Dr. MONTGOMERY, of the Episcopal Church of the Incarnation, Madison-avenue and Twenty-fifth-street, came next in order, and immediately followed the coffin-bearers. The Loyal Legion and twenty officers and sailors, commanded by Mr. J. J. TESSMALLE, who served with the Admiral, also joined the procession and followed the line of march. Then came Lieut. LOYAL FARRAGUT, son of the deceased, his secretary, Major MONTGOMERY, and Commodore PENNOCK, his friend and relative by marriage, and Mayor HALL, accompanied by Aldermen PARKS, LITTLEFIELD, FRIEDBE and Mr. HARDING. Lastly came the President, with the members of his Cabinet, Secretaries ROBESON, BELKNAP and CRESWELL, with Admiral PORTER and the other distinguished gentlemen previously mentioned. In this order the procession moved up the divious avenues leading to Aurora Hill, where the interment occurred, the bands meanwhile playing "Auld Lang Syne" and the "Dead March in Saul." Aurora Hill, where the closing ceremony took place, is on a considerable elevation above the general level of the adjacent country, and affords a pleasing prospect. The grave is situated on its side, in the centre of a circular plot of ground about a quarter of an acre in circumference, which was presented to the family of Admiral FARRAGUT by the trustees of Woodlawn Cemetery. The grave is six feet in depth, and the brick work at its bottom is seven feet in length, two in depth, and two feet eight inches in width. As yet no preparations have been made for the erection of a monument, but it is in contemplation by the City municipal authorities to do so.

CEREMONIES AT THE GRAVE.

The procession reached the grave at 3½, and the troops formed in line at its right side. Dr. MONTGOMERY, attended by all the officers, advanced, chanting the hymn, "I am the resurrection and the life," &c. He then read from the burial service of the Episcopal Church, and prayed: "Oh! Almighty and Eternal God, King of Kings and Lord of Lords, in whom we live, move, and have our being, we confess our unworthiness and supplicate Thy divine mercy. Fervently we implore Thy goodness, succor and defense. Uphold, we beseech Thee, the Government of this land by Thy merciful and mighty power. May the Republic ever be preserved. Give grace, we beseech Thee, to the President of these United States, to the Senators and Representatives, to the Governor of this State, to the Mayor of the City, and to all the civic and military authorities of the States and of the nation. Grant, we beseech Thee, that all things may be so ordered and settled by their endeavors upon the best and surest foundations, that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us for all generations. This and all other necessaries we humbly beg, in the name and for the sake of our blessed Savior, Jesus Christ."

At 3:35 o'clock the trappings which surrounded the coffin were removed, and it was formally lowered into the grave, with military honors, and slowly and sadly the procession reformed and returned. The special train which conveyed those who composed it to the cemetery awaited their return, and shortly after 4 o'clock moved homeward.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—The Navy Department is closed today as a mark of respect to the memory of the late Admiral FARRAGUT.

EX-GOVERNOR SEYMOUR.

His Speech at St. Paul, Minn.—Views on the Internal Commerce of the Country—Not a Candidate for the Presidency.

At a recent gathering in St. Paul, Minn., Ex-Governor SEYMOUR, in the course of quite a lengthy speech, said "He had been to St. Paul before. He had now come again, over a new route, by way of Lake Superior, and he was more than ever impressed with the advantages possessed by the people of the West, and when he reflected on the vast expanse of country—the lakes, rivers, and prairies—he saw the necessity of a new adjustment of political power. At this moment the eye of the world was upon the great contest between Germany and France, and after dwelling for a moment upon this gigantic struggle, he said that important as these bloody events were, they were insignificant when compared with the political events which were transpiring in this country under the operation of our popular institutions. The next census would bring the centre of political power 1,000 miles further west, and this fact would bring up new questions for statesmen to grapple with. And nowhere will these new questions be more important than upon the banks of the Mississippi.

"To you of the West will be confided the destinies of this country. And, though he loved his native State, and loved his country, he was glad that the seat of political power was being thus transferred to the Valley of the Mississippi. There was not in the Atlantic States the same intercourse among the people as in the West, who, coming together from all points, were more liberal in their views and more disposed to consider the opinions of others as well as their own.

Gov. SEYMOUR said that he had noticed in one of our papers the statement that he was a candidate for the Presidency. Had the editor of that paper ever been a candidate for that office, he would not, perhaps, have made that statement. For himself, one such attempt had been sufficient to destroy any ambition he may have ever entertained in that direction. Such being the case, no particular significance could be attributed to any remarks he might make. He could not travel through this country, and observe its vast extent and prosperity, without feeling that it was better to be an American citizen than an ambitious politician.

Among the great questions which would soon require attention was that of transportation—the transportation which enabled the people of the West to reach of the world with the products of their industry. The only question is by what means can the people of the West most advantageously get their products to market. In the Atlantic States it had not been so great a question, for being close to the seaboard, the people could readily and cheaply find their way to foreign markets.

There was a time when taxes were gathered in the simplest and most economical manner, when the monarch of a country took a share of everything that was produced in his realms; when, on the principle of toll-ing the grain at a mill, the king took a tenth or more of all the productions of his people, dipping his toll-ing-dish in every bushel of grain that was raised; and all the taxes were raised in that simple and direct way. He supposed a similar case to be applied to the West. If every bushel of wheat shipped from the West to the sea-board were to be thus toll-ed, how much would be left when it reached New-York? Less than one-half. Now, then, could the policy of the Government be shaped so that this taxation should not bear so heavily upon the people of the West? The question concerned them in New-York as well as in the West.

We of New-York have taken up this question of internal commerce. The Erie Canal have already taken off one-half the toll for transportation, and New-York will soon make its waters free to the commerce of the country; New-York will, before long, dispense with the revenues which it has furnished, and in order to promote the industry of the whole country, will throw the waters of the Erie Canal open to the commerce of the world. New-York would be with the great West on this great question.

The Jury Law.

That portion of the amended jury law passed at the last session of the Legislature which relates to the drawing of jurors, goes into effect today. The changes from the old law consist in imposing a fine of not less than $50 nor more than $250 on grand jurors drawn, who are not in attendance at Court when required; in making the list of jurors for the District Courts to consist of not less than fifty nor more than 100 jurors for each Court, and in imposing a fine of $25 on any juror duly drawn and summoned who shall neglect or refuse to attend said Court. The residue of the amended act went into effect on the 1st of July last.

WAR LETTERS.

BELEAGUERED PARIS.

Sentiment in the Metropolis—The Assembly—Rumors of Peace—Rations—Sorties—Gambetta—Bazaine—Strasbourg—Metz—Mr. Washburne—Mr. Bancroft—Prussian Hopes—Affairs in Spain and Italy.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PARIS, Thursday, Sept. 15, 1870.

The regions of diplomacy are still enveloped in clouds, while the military horizon is very clearly defined. At the various Embassies and Legations of the foreign Powers a very strong peace current prevails, but it is evident that Gen. TROCHU and the Provisional Government have more confidence in a vigorous defense of Paris to bring about a cessation of hostilities than in the consultation of M. THIERS with the leading statesmen of England, Russia and Austria. Paris wishes their able Ambassador a God speed, but it expects but slight results from his triple mission. There is no time to wait for long-drawn arguments of fine orators; the hour for action cannot be deferred. Paris, therefore, only counts on the resources of France; it is preparing for a grand effort, and these diplomatic delays are an immense assistance, inasmuch as they enable the provinces to rally their force and organize a new army. It is well understood that when the Prussians shall be checked in their hitherto triumphant career, there will be found any number of allies ready to hold out a helping hand.

THE ATTITUDE OF AMERICA.

The statements that Mr. BANCROFT, our Minister to the Court of Berlin, has been influenced by BISMARCK to present an unfavorable view of the French position, even since the Republic, is much commented on in Paris, where the sympathetic action of Mr. WASHBURNE has revived the warm friendship of the days of LAFAYETTE between the two nations. It can hardly be admitted that any American could be brought to take a position hostile to the Republic of France at this trying hour. As long as the war was in some sort a duel between two despotisms, one of which was less respectable than the other, it was permitted for Americans to express their sympathies for the feudal side, founded on tradition, represented by Prussia, against a tyranny based on falsehood and terror. The very large class of respectable Germans forming a very strongholds of republicanism in our midst, naturally gave their adherence to the Prussians as a matter of sentiment—the old love for the fatherland—which, to their honor be it said, they show by aiding, by every means in their power, their countrymen unable to share with them the benefits of our glorious institutions. But even they must now recognize that their moral support will give aid and comfort to the enemies of human progress, and that it is time to put aside sentiment, stand forth in their might as freemen, and offer their most earnest prayers until the moment for material aid arrives for the success of the French Republic. The brave and disinterested men who are now straining every nerve to advance the era of freedom throughout Europe merit all praise. During long years they have battled single-handed against armed legions. They have said to the men of the Empire, "We want you!" "You call us seditious; we are only prudent;" "We implore you to reflect before it is too late to avert inevitable calamity." Thiers, Jules Favre, Picard, Pelletan, Garnier Pagès, Jules Simon, Gambetta, Jules Ferry and Rochefort, are names which deserve higher honors than those given to the heroes of the sword, who, in supreme moments only, are called on for deeds of valor; for they have fought almost hopeless of having to witness the triumph of their cause, with the sword of DAMOCLES suspended over their heads. It is devoutly to be hoped that some means of aiding the French Republic may be devised by our skilful politicians.

AFFAIRS IN SPAIN AND ITALY.

A republican movement in Spain, which appears imminent, may come opportunely. The Spanish republicans would not hesitate to cede Cuba to the United States for a few of our redundant millions. These millions would lift Spain out of the mire of financial difficulties into which she has been plunged by the BOURBONS and PRIM, the emulator of the BONAPARTES, and enable it to come effectually to the aid of France. Italy is marching on steadily to Rome and a Republic. It is evident, therefore, that if France can obtain a short respite, the hope of regeneration of which NAPOLEON III. continually boasted as his special mission—solo Mexico—will have been accomplished, although not in the same dreamed of by the self-styled modern Cæsar. An indication of a speedy movement in Spain exists in the fact of the sudden departure of Señor OLOZAGA, last night, for Madrid. The Spanish Ambassador was closely closeted with M. JULES FAVRE during the greater part of yesterday afternoon, and two interviews took place between these gentlemen—one at the Spanish Embassy, the other at the residence of the Minister of Foreign Affairs.

ENGLAND.

Popular opinion in England appears to have declared its independence of the London Times. A delegate from the Democracy of Greenwich—Mr. MERRIMAN—came to Paris yesterday, bearer of an address to the Republic. Mr. MERRIMAN was received by M. JULES FAVRE, to whom he was presented by Capt. DE ROMAN, aid-de-camp to GARIBALDI.

GEN. CLUSERET.

Gen. CLUSERET, our soi disant American, of the "red-hot boiling-over" type of Republicanism, is smarting under his rebuke from his brother ROCHEFORT. At a public meeting, held night before last, he rose and declared that he was grieved that any one should suspect him of being animated with the slightest suspicion of hostility toward the Government of National Defense. No; never had he supposed he could be suspected of wishing to place difficulties in the way of the Republican movement. The article for which he is so severely reproached, he affirmed, was written with no other aim but that of pushing on the Government, in conformity with the Republican principles he had seen constantly in exercise in the United States. The General recollects when President LINCOLN was called a buffoon, while the war was at its height, without any effect whatever upon the result of the cause. But the General forgets that France has been trammeled so long that the marks of the gyves are still visible, and prevent free motion. The General had very nearly made peace with the public, when he came forward with a proposition to set a civil officer to watch the commandants of the forts, under the pretext that Prussian gold had been as freely spent as Prussian lead, and that a million or two might buy up some one of the non-brave defenders of the city. This proposition, so flattering to his countrymen, was hooted down with imprecations upon its author. Gen. CLUSERET's republican lessons in America do not seem to have profited him.

PRUSSIAN HOPES.

It is evident that the King of Prussia still hopes to have assistance from within, and I fear that he is carrying out an old trick, which the French do not seem to perceive. Within the past few days we have had a great many Uhlans captured, most of them having lost their horses. Two were taken on Tuesday very far from their corps. The men spoke French perfectly, as all of these prisoners have done, and they complain loudly of their capture. "I was to have been made an officer," said the last one, "and had I dreamed of being captured, I should have blown my brains out." These prisoners are brought into Paris with a great flourish of trumpets, and the newspapers relate the stories of their capture. It is a suspicious fact that all of these prisoners speak French so well, and I fear that we shall have another "wooden-horse" affair when the assault begins, unless Gen. TROCHU sees the matter in a different light from the public. It would be extremely imprudent to keep any Prussian prisoners in the city when the siege begins.

THE STORY FROM LAON.

It is now acknowledged that the commandant of Laon did not blow up the citadel, and a brave officer's name is cleared from reproach. I do not mean to say that he was reproached here for an act that would have been treason; on the contrary, the journals praised him highly, and even went so far as to charge him with having invited the Prussians into the chateau after he had signed the surrender, in order to blow them up. Now it is said that a spy was performed by a private in the [illegible] named HEURION, and the Prussians say that his name should be in [illegible] of the enemy's army. It is [illegible] some time in a state of paralytic exhaustion. He was an eye-witness, concealed at Laon, of the guard of the magazine. Had the commandant refused to surrender, he had he blown up the fortress when the enemy was assaulting it, no fault could be found with the act, but the place had been given up when the explosion took place. The words "patriotic exhaustion" give us a complete key to this mystery. It turns out that the French loss was far more serious than that of the enemy, for near three hundred of the Mobile were killed and wounded.

THE TROUBLES AT LYONS.

The troubles at Lyons are not yet over, and letters from that city give an account of a reign of terror. The men who proclaimed the Republic on the 4th of September, have formed a provisional government of their own, under the name of "The Commune of Lyons," and it is in open revolt against the Government of Paris. There are two military posts at the Hotel de Ville, upon which the red flag has been hoisted, and the soldiers of the Commune make arrests, dispose of the persons of citizens, collect the taxes, and seizure private property. The Prefect appointed by the Paris Government has not been able to overcome the usurped authority. Many citizens have been maltreated by the mob, and the Prefect himself has not escaped rough usage. His protests are answered by protests; for those men say that, having declared the Republic first in Lyons, the Provisional Government of Paris has usurped its authority. If the dreadful pall of the country cannot keep these men quiet, what can we expect when peace is made? The Gaulois says that some kind of an arrangement has been made.

THE STATE OF SIEGE.

Any one can now leave the city between morning and evening. The gates of the city are closed at dark. This is said to be the last day that luggage will be taken. The English Consul has issued a notice to British residents, telling them that if, in spite of the warnings given by the Prefect, they remain in the city, they must not look to him for protection. On the other hand, it is said that the American Ambassador has advised all Americans to stay in their houses, even those living beyond the walls, but to be sure and keep the flag flying from the roof or windows. This looks as if the United States meant to protect its citizens. During the late excitement in Greece it is said that an American traveler asked his Minister if he could go into the country with safety. "That is not a fair question," replied the diplomat. "Why not, pray?" asked the traveler, in surprise. "Because you might get captured by the brigands, and then I should have a chance of making a reputation by showing these fellows how the United States protects its citizens." As a friend, he would say remain here; as a diplomat, go, by all means. So the Americans are taking the siege very coolly, and, putting a chip upon their hats, are waiting for somebody to knock it off if they dare. So far as the people go, no one would dream that a powerful enemy was drawing near the city. Every one seems to have a calm aspect and a mirthful manner; indeed, I have as yet seen nothing which led me to feel that the Parisians really appreciate their danger. The theatres would have been going still if they had not been closed by order.

The City a Military Camp—Movements of the Government—Local Defense—The Under-ground Metropolis—Imperial Purchases.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PARIS, Friday, Sept. 16, 1870.

Paris at this time is one vast military camp. At all hours of the day one sees the streets full of troops, and groups crowd upon the corners and on all of the public squares. There are soldiers of all branches of the service—National Guards, Mobiles, Franc-Tireurs, guerrillas, foreign legions, volunteers, gendarmes, Zouaves, rifles, marines, men of every section of France, all gathered here for the defense of the capital. No pen can describe the numberless scenes of our daily life, the variety, the constant change, the animation, the picturesque appearance of the streets and boulevards. At every moment the drum beats, and the sound of the trumpet is heard from morning to night. The avenues and gardens are transformed into drilling grounds, and the Tuileries Garden itself is an artillery camp. At every instant the physiognomy of the city changes like kaleidoscope views, and one cannot weary in looking from his windows upon these busy scenes. At this time Paris by gaslight is decidedly brilliant; it remains to be seen how it will look when the gas is cut off. Speaking of that, I should remark that every proprietor is recommended to keep a lantern burning at his door. At the sound of the first shot upon the city the gas company will open its receivers and permit the gas to escape from all of the gas-meters.

MOVEMENTS OF THE GOVERNMENT.

It is now almost determined that only a small portion of the Government will leave the city, and the foreign Ambassadors have announced their intention of remaining if JULES FAVRE stays. Although this is the decision today, it may be modified to-morrow. All hopes of an armistice are not yet given up, and the Government is trying hard for peace—peace at any price, as the only means of saving the Republic. I do not say this unadvisedly, for I am assured that the words came from the lips of JULES FAVRE himself. But that will not save the Republic by any means; indeed, it seems about the worst possible way to insure its security in the hearts of the French people. We lack a good statesman at this time. About the best head we have is upon the shoulders of M. THIERS, but he has no influence with the Committee for the National Defense. He is considered an old fogy. They say that he was an old fogy twenty years ago, but all that does not prevent him from having a long head. A much stronger accusation against him would be that he is a staunch Royalist, which is perhaps the truth.

FROM THE FRONT.

Every day men come into the city who escaped the capitulation of Sedan, and who, after many privations and dangers, succeed in reaching Paris. Many of the cavalry rode their horses as long as the poor beasts could stand, then sold them for a few francs, and came on afoot. A general officer arrived last night in the garb of a peasant. A number of these men have wounds, showing that they left after the battles which preceded the surrender at Sedan.

LOCAL DEFENSE.

A signal telegraph has been established upon the Arc de Triomphe de l'Etoile to correspond with one upon the fort of Mont Valérien. The naval signal corps has charge of the telegraphing, and, of course, a new system is used. At night the signals will be made by colored lights. Mont Valérien commands a view of the whole country around Paris on every side, and when the woods are cleared every movement of the enemy must be seed from its signal station. The electric telegraph will be used until the enemy cuts the wires. At this time nearly all telegraphing has been stopped, partly because the Government uses the lines continually, partly because the number of wires has been greatly reduced. The Company has taken in a large quantity of wire to keep it from falling into the hands of the enemy. The balloon signals are also established and the machines already inflated. It is said that there will be a new feature introduced, namely: a photographer will take pictures, birds-eye views, at every moment of the enemy's advance. These pictures will be sent down instantly on a cord, to be placed before the General commanding.

THE UNDER-GROUND METROPOLIS.

Notwithstanding the assurance given by the authorities that no danger can possible take place from the mining of the catacombs, the ignorant portion of the population of Paris have not had their fears calmed. All manner of absurd reports continue to circulate, the latest one is that a number of abandoned wells of the city communicate with these subterranean passages, and that the Prussians, now regarded as better informed on the state of the entire city than the citizens themselves, would make use of them as a means of entrance. The new fears are another crop of trepidation with terror, so much has been said on the subject that the people have arisen so far as to declare that M. ALPHAND, the Chief of the City Engineers, gave a [illegible] of those underground [illegible] to the King of Prussia, when His Majesty was in Paris during the Exposition, during a visit of a large party of Imperial and Royal hosts and guests. The Journal Officiel and M. ALPHAND both consider these rumors of sufficient importance to merit a public refutation. The official organ again reiterates that there is nothing to be feared from the catacombs, and assures the timid that a band of agents of the mining service are constantly armed and on the watch there. M. ALPHAND adds that he is nearly exhausted, and declares that he has given every moment of his time for the past month to the service of the Committee of Defense, having, during twenty-two years, been at the disposal of the municipal authorities.

IMPERIAL PURCHASES.

I gave you the other day an account of the discovery of sand cartridges which had been purchased as powder-cartridges according to the most natural explanation, and now we have another mare's nest which gives the journalists a chance to prefer the same charge of treason against the men who served the Empire. A soldier, wishing to try his gun, fired at a board, and was astonished to see his ball flatten and fall to the ground. On picking it up he discovered that it was made of soft metal and was hollow. The indignant patriot made a great outcry, carrying the hollow ball to almost every journal in the city. Then came the diatribes against the Empire, based upon this most important discovery. The explanation comes. To try some arms without risking the lives of the people, a gunsmith was ordered to make 250 bullets of this species, hard enough to penetrate an ordinary target and no more. By mistake, the balls left were put into the cartouche of the National Guard, who is very loth to accept the statement of the authorities, even when backed by the affidavit of the gunsmith.

THE DEFENSE OF PARIS.

The General Review in Paris—The Mobiles—Rumors of Peace—War Loans to Agriculture—Barricades, Torpedoes and Mines—New Version of an Old Story.

From Our Military Correspondent.

PARIS, Tuesday, Sept. 13, 1870.

I have just come in after a wearisome tour about the city to see the grand review of the National Guard and the Mobiles by Gen. TROCHU, Governor of Paris, and the Vice-President of the National Committee for the Defense. I am not sure that I have the title correct, but JULES FAVRE is the man. The programme was given in the morning journals. The different sections were ordered to form in various places along the streets, chiefly between the Place de la Bastile and the Madelaine, and the general staff rode by each section in turn. There was no march by the General, owing to the small space allowed for marching, and the length of time it would have taken to defile past any given point. I know by experience what tiresome things reviews are to those engaged, and the shorter they can be made the better for both officers and men. I was in Paris in the year 1856 for the baptism of the Prince Imperial, and saw the three hundred thousand troops of the line which had been brought into Paris for that fête. After an hour on the Rue de Rivoli we got enough of it, yet for eight mortal hours troops were filing down the avenue of the Champs Elysees and by the Tuileries. It was, perhaps, one of the most imposing military spectacles ever seen in France. The scenes today lacked the brilliancy and glitter of the former pageant, but there was a greater variety of incident, and an enthusiasm which broke out at times and ran along the lines, as applause in the theatre becomes general when started by some old play-goer or claqueur. Most of the Gardes Nationales were in new and very neat uniforms, and presented a military appearance. The Mobiles were men in motley attire, and by no means an imposing body of soldiers. Now and then a regiment had the black woollen jacket with red trimmings, but the most of them wore the blue jean blouse, belted at the waist, and having a red cross or red stripe upon the collar. All wore the kepi. As I have already remarked, a few weeks in the city makes a vast difference in the appearance of these men. They learn to walk with a firm tread, and to drop their slovenly country gait; they learn to keep their mouths shut and their heads up, and they lose that air of wonder and surprise which at first marks their arrival from the country. For the first few days it is almost as dangerous for them in Paris as it would be in battle, for more than once an hour, perhaps, stands gazing at some wonder, until run over by a passing carriage. MIKE WALSH used to say that it required more real talent to avoid being run over in the city, than it did to be Justice of the Peace in the country. The talents of these men do not seem to run in that way, for despite the cab-drivers' "gare," they can scarcely keep from under the wheels. In one hour's walk I saw three knocked down and run over within one hundred yards of each other. In each case the National Guards marched the driver off to jail. With time all of these hardy peasants will make capital soldiers, and the only trouble now is that the enemy is just upon us. On the whole, the review passed off very well. Great crowds thronged the streets, and ladies brought flowers and sprigs of green to put in the muzzles of the guns. Some companies carried miniature flags in that manner. There were some twenty thousand men in ordinary clothes but armed with the old-fashioned musket. The belt and gun was the only military mark about them. At the head of one of these companies marched a wooden-legged veteran, with the medals of the Russian campaign upon his breast. Women and children were beside the men in ranks, and there were frequent cries of "Vive la France," or "Vive la Republique;" but a French hurrah does not amount to much. There is no general, concerted cry, but these "vivas" run from lip to lip, perhaps two or three in each company uttering the cry. Most of the companies cried "Vive la France," and there was great danger of a collision between an ununiformed band and a uniformed company, because the latter only cried "Vive la France," and not "Vive la Republique." Thus far the review has passed off in a very satisfactory manner, and as I write the troops are going to their various quarters.

HOPES OF PEACE.

Although there is now no hope of keeping the enemy away from Paris, the hope of peace is still held out. The old King of Prussia has "his back up"—his Teuton blood is thoroughly roused, and he does not mean to be stopped until he has surrounded Paris by his victorious army. The Republicans now say openly that peace must be made at any price, and one who is intimate with the Government tells me today that, cost what it may, peace ought to be made at once as the only way of saving the Republic. From what I have heard, I feel sure that the trouble now is with the Kingdom, the difficulty being in bringing himself to treat with the Provisional Committee as the real Government of France. This difficulty he had not counted on, and it is a formidable one. If the Republic is established firmly no crowned head will be safe in Europe, and none of the great nations desire a Republic in France. This has kept England from taking more active measures in favor of peace. If an armistice is granted, terms will be made, for the Republicans know that if the King takes the city by force of arms he will either restore NAPOLEON to his throne, or put a Hohenzollern on an Orleans in the Tuileries. But even if peace can be made on the King's own terms, the Republic is not safe, for the 3,000,000 of voters who sustained the Empire in May last are by no means strong Republicans. Whichever way it goes the Republic cannot stand alone, and unless some protection can be won in connection with the treaty of peace, we shall soon have another civil war. There are already indications of conquering step and the anti-republicans are only quiet because the country is menaced by so great a danger. At this moment it is impossible to imagine what turn things may take.

ONE RESULT OF THE WAR.

Of one thing we may be tolerably sure, that the farmers will not be sorry to have peace and to see the German Armies once more beyond the Rhine. I will give you an estimate of the losses already sustained in the narrow strip of France through which the Prussian Armies have passed. It should be said, however, that friendly armies are very nearly as terrible to the farmers as hostile armies, for friend and foe alike sweep the country. In the one case, though, the farmer has a prospect of payment after the war, and of an indemnity for serious losses. Competent agriculturists connected with the public bureau, have estimated the losses thus far at one thousand francs per acre. The following table gives the number of acres overrun in each Department:

	Acres.		Acres.
Aube	205,000	Meurthe	106,323
Marne	317,027	Moselle	326,726
Haute-Marne	272,042	Bas-Rhin	494,[illegible]
Meuse	220,[illegible]
Total			4,[illegible],194

It will thus be seen that, according to the official announcement, the farmers have already lost more than $2,500,000 in some five weeks of actual war. This figure does not include buildings injured or destroyed, the loss of labor, nor the requisitions made by the enemy. This, of course, must be assessed upon property, and the farmers, as usual, must bear the largest share. Nor does this take in any losses except those caused by the war, the crops destroyed or taken, the stock driven away, and the destruction of labor just upon the soil during the present year. It must be remembered that the average income per acre in these departments is not far from two hundred dollars, land being much more closely cultivated here than in America. The immediate dropping of the stamp by the newspapers has not escaped the notice of the farmers, nor the proposed abolition of the tobacco monopoly. To understand the feeling we have only to look at the United States revenue tax. It is necessary, to support the Government, to make the tax as general as possible, and to divide it upon all classes of industry. To drop this stamp of five centimes per paper, without lowering the price, is to take a sou from the Government to put in your own pocket. How is the deficiency to be made up? The farmers must pay it. I do not mean to discuss the question here as to the justice of this tax, or to prove that it is or is not a tax upon knowledge. The fact existed with the Empire, and the Republic must have money. These men would have shown a more patriotic spirit, and aided in removing one cause of discontent by continuing to pay this tax until some fair system of taxation was devised. It is a well-understood thing in political economy that almost all kinds of industry have means for evading taxation which land has not, and every such evasion only throws a heavier burden upon the agriculturist. Farmers are not at all stupid on such points, or where the pocket is concerned, and they are very quick to take up these things. If the agricultural and commercial prosperity of France had not gone on increasing from year to year under the Empire, it could never have received the support it did last May, and on certain points the Republic may well take a lesson from the Empire.

METROPOLITAN SENTIMENT.

With the explosion of the Citadel at Laon came an immense explosion of public sentiment in this city. A number of the companies of the National Guard were for blowing themselves up at once, or when the enemy appeared, and again there began the loud talk about barricades in the street. If one says a word against this old-time system of warfare, he is shown how Paris has defended herself by barricades. It is hard to make a Prussian understand that an armed mob is not equal to organized troops, and one would be exposed to a bad quart d'heure if he told the real truth, and said that the Prussian infantry would carry all the barricades they could make in one hour. If the strong fortifications do not stop them, no barricades will. Gen. TROCHU understands this very well, and with a touch of sly humor he answers these clamors by saying that "if the Prussians succeed in entering the city, I will appoint ROCHEFORT General of the barricades, and all will be saved." No one seemed to perceive that this was a "gosh," and a public meeting on barricades was held. In the most serious manner ROCHEFORT was named President of Barricades, and FLOURENS Vice-President. Let us hope that these two men will be found at their post when the enemy has beaten TROCHU and his 200,000 soldiers. I have been told that the enemy may soon find some serious obstacles in their path, which in plain language means that torpedoes have been laid and mines charged. I do not believe in this system of warfare as a general thing, for it is a system which both parties may in time adopt. By getting a band of desperate men together, one-half of Paris might be blown up, by filling the catacombs with casks of powder floated down the Seine. Fortunately, about nine out of ten of these plans fail for want of a man willing to blow himself up with the mine. Naval torpedoes are different things, but even they are, it seems to me, most outrageously inhuman. Yet it is hard to draw lines in war. The barber drew his lines at coal-heavers, and I do not feel like extending my lines to mines and torpedoes.

NEW VERSION OF AN OLD STORY.

The story of the thirty thousand Prussian rifles lately discovered, has somewhat changed its character. It now seems that these guns were in a

A married lady at Bridgeport, Conn., becoming jealous of a young lady in the same city, wrote to the latter recently, giving her twenty-four hours to leave, on pain of being arrested. The fair one, not at all put about by the threat, briefly replied: "Won't you give me twenty-five?" An explosion followed, but there were no lives lost.

A shocking tragedy was recently perpetrated at Rushville, Ind., by a young man named LONG, who in a fit of rage at a young woman who had selected another young man for her husband instead of him, shot the latter and three of his friends. He then escaped to the house of his own father, and ended the bloody work by blowing out his own brains.

A young man named FRANK NUTTING committed suicide, a few days ago, by throwing himself before a locomotive on the Troy and Boston Railroad track. A letter was found on the body, from which we make the following extract: "Whoever finds my dead body and this paper will know who I am. Send my personal effects to my wife, Mrs. GERTRUDE NUTTING, in Lansingburg. I did this by my own hand. Ruin is the cause. I have but one regret; that is my wife, for she has been a wife to me in every sense of the word; but I cannot live any longer, for I am tired of life. So now farewell to the world."

The Chicago Executive Committee of the Patriotic German Aid Societies of Illinois, having had under consideration a protest against Minister WASHBURNE's official acts at Paris, appointed several gentlemen as a committee to give expression to their views upon the matter in a set of resolutions. The result is that Mr. WASHBURNE is severely taken to task for not having interfered to prevent atrocity to Germans, and for having been so ready to recognize a Government that is really only one of defense. After gravely agreeing not to ask for his removal, the gentlemen conclude as follows: "As soon as the new Republic is regularly established by the free vote of the people, we shall all rejoice in the good fortune of the French nation, and we fervently hope that it may be permanent, and that it may not be, as heretofore, a Republic of centralization and despotism, but, after the American pattern, a Republic of real freedom and self-government of the people. Neither Germany nor any other nation wants to interfere in the domestic affairs of the French people; but, although we hope that peace will soon be declared, and the Republic be firmly established, the French, who enthusiastically clamored for war only a few weeks ago, who madly shouted: 'On to the Rhine!' who would have defied the Emperor, if he had been victorious; who would have annexed to France, in such a case, the fairest provinces of Germany, must now pay the forfeit of the desperate game they played, as well in treasure as in territory, particularly as the territory now claimed by the victorious Germans never belonged to France, but of right is still part and parcel of the old German Empire, now in the way of reconstruction."

Departure of Lady Missionaries for India.

A meeting was held at 2½ P. M., yesterday, in the lecture-room of the Reformed Church, corner Fifth-avenue and Twenty-ninth-street, for the purpose of bidding a Christian farewell to five young ladies, who start, to-day, as missionaries to India. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Women's Union Missionary Society. Notwithstanding the terrible state of the weather, there was a very large attendance on the occasion, the auditory being composed, for the most part, of ladies. The exercises were of a simple character. Prayer was offered by Rev. E. P. ROGERS, who afterward read a selection from Scripture, and briefly addressed the auditory. He alluded to the services of the late Admiral FARRAGUT, whose remains were being borne through the streets while he spoke, and remarked that there were public heroes that lived and heroes possessed of as great courage that had—the heroes and heroines of the Cross, who sacrificed everything for the sake of the Master's cause, and spent their lives in endeavors to spread the Gospel over the burning plains of India. Of this class of heroines were the ladies to whom they were now to bid farewell, and upon whom he, in behalf of the Christian Church, called down Heaven's choicest benedictions.

A few remarks were made also by Rev. Mr. POMEROY, of the Ross-street Church, Williamsburg, pastor of one of the outgoing missionaries, and the exercises were closed with benediction; after which the ladies were introduced to many of the audience.

The lady missionaries are: Miss BRITTAN, Episcopalian, who has already served on the Indian mission and is now returning sister; and Miss WIRD, Presbyterian, of Williamsburg; Miss LAWRENCE, Congregationalist, of Rockford, Ill.; Miss BUTLER, Baptist, of Chicago, and Miss CHASE, Reformed, of Stillwater, N. Y. They leave for their destination to-day.

THE TURF.

The Jerome Park Fall Race Meeting—The Programme of Sport for the First Days—Horses in Training—The Probable Starters and Winners.

On Thursday next, the 6th inst., the gates of Jerome Park will be opened for the celebration of the initial Fall meeting of the American Jockey Club. The coming meeting will be inaugurated under more favorable auspices than any of its predecessors, for never before has a programme of racing sport of such magnitude and liberality been issued by any turf association, for there is considerably over $20,000 to be run for during the five days of the meeting. The entries for the stakes are unprecedentedly large, there being forty-nine horses entered in the Champion Stakes, nineteen in the Jerome Stakes, and twenty-six and twenty-three respectively in the Annual and Lorillard Stakes, all races for three-year olds. In the Nursery Stakes, for two-year olds, we find sixty youngsters entered, so that the winner will be entitled to $4,000. With so much money to be run for, and plenty of horses, the prospect of exciting sport at the approaching meeting is bright and flattering.

FIRST DAY—THURSDAY, OCT. 6.

The first race on the opening day is a handicap sweepstakes of $60 each, play or pay, with $600 added by the Jockey Club; dash of one mile and a quarter. There are twelve horses entered, which are distinguished as follows:

J. M. H. BELMONT's b. c. Preakness, 4 years, by Lexington, dam Spy Glass, 108 pounds. A. BELMONT's b. h. Glendy, 4 years, by Glenelg, dam Dolce, 112 pounds. R. A. BELMONT's b. h. Saverlo, 4 years, by Balrowne, dam Maroon, 108 pounds. W. ALSOP's ch. g. Wells Jewett, 4 years, by Lexington, dam Flirt de Chemise, 98 pounds. J. W. JEROME's br. h. Hungary, 4 years, by Hermitage, dam Cora Wilson, 98 pounds. E. MORRIS's b. h. Joe, 4 years, by Kentucky, dam Rosalind, 98 pounds. J. BACON & HOLLADAY's b. c. Overture, 3 years, by Uncle Vic, dam by Sovereign, 91 pounds. J. BACON & HOLLADAY's ch. f. Lady Harrison, 3 years, by Lexington, dam Lady Evelyn, 91 pounds. J. BACON & HOLLADAY's b. f. Mozart, 3 years, by Sovereign, dam Dolly Morgan, 91 pounds. T. G. MOORE's ch. c. Foster, by Lexington, dam McCloskey, by Lexington, dam Lucy, by Lexington. T. G. MOORE's ch. c. Foster, by Lexington, dam McCloskey, 98 pounds.

It is hardly probable that more than six will start on this race. Yesterday, Messrs. William R. Travers, Pierbull and Lexington were out of training; Hesperia is lame, and the following are the most probable contenders: Mozart, Saverlo, Hungary, Preakness, Joe, Wells Jewett.

The most likely runners of the lot are Preakness, By the Sea, Balrowne, Belle Chalybe, ch. f. by Cesar, dam Pallas; and R. W. JEROME's br. h. by Kentucky, dam Cyclone. The quickness and speed Balrowne showed when she was the Fresh Stakes at Saratoga indicates into think very highly of her chances in this race, although the distance is much greater. Balrowne, however, is bred for staying on both sides.

THE LORILLARD STAKES.

The richest and most important race of the meeting, comes next. This is for three-year olds, two miles, $600, half forfeit, with $3,000 added by a distinguished and liberal patron of the turf, C. A. LORILLARD, Esq., of Boston, the owner of Tarrare, Kingfisher, Ecarte, Bonnie Lassie, Remoreless; J. O'DONNELL's b. c. Harlo; J. O'DONNELL's ch. f. Eclipse or his b. f. Kinsley, whichever he selects to represent his stable. We are of opinion that this race will rest between Harlo, Foster and Mr. BELMONT's representatives, and that one of the three will furnish the winner.

The third race is the Nursery Stakes for two-year olds, $50 each, play or pay, with $1,000 added, one mile; the second horse receiving $200 out of the stakes. Of the sixty youngsters entered for this valuable stake, (worth $4,000 to the winner,) we do not expect to see more than the following eight start: JOHN O'DONNELL's gr. f. Mary Louise, by Lightning; J. W. JEROME's ch. f. by Kentucky, dam Artet; D. McDANIEL's ch. c. Harry Russell, by Lexington; D. D. WITHERS's b. c. by Lexington, dam Robin; H. P. HAWES' ch. f. Lizzie, by Lexington; J. THOMAS' b. f. Aerosol, by War Dance; and perhaps one each from Mr. BELMONT's and Mr. SANFORD's stables. Judging from public running, we prefer the chances of Mary Louise, Harry Russell and the Bolds-Lexington filly to the others, and consider it funny for the fleetest and the winner, steeple-chasing, making four races, terminates the day's sport, the entries for it closing the afternoon previous.

SECOND DAY—SATURDAY, OCT. 8.

The Jerome Sweepstakes for three-year-old fillies commences the sport on the second day. The entrance is $300 each, half forfeit, with $600 added, one mile and three-quarters, and there are fifteen horses entered. Of these the following are likely to start: M. H. SANFORD's b. f. Gretchen, Bend; A. BELMONT's ch. f. Nellie James; F. MORRIS' ch. f. Remoreless; CLARK & GEISENFAUT's Flash of Lightning; H. P. McGRATH's b. f. Susan Ann, and THOMPSON & MILLER's b. f. Lady Perry. Flash of Lightning and Remoreless are the best public performers in the lot, and as the former is in the skillful training hands of ANTHONY TAYLOR, who this season accomplished such wonders with Judge Curtis and R. B. Connolly, we give her the preference over Mr. MORRIS' filly, but very important results may yet be hatched.

The Maturity Stakes for four-year olds, $400 each, half forfeit, with $1,200 added, comes next. The distance is three miles, twenty entries, with $200 for the second horse. The field of starters will not be large, for Harvey and Bonnie Lass are dead; Glenelg, Versailles, Onga, Blazeway Stone, Clemmie and Oliver P. not in training; Vespucius has hit his leg, and Catskill is in "Coventry." The only likely runners are Helmbold, Repeter, Niagara and Glenelg, and the quartet are certain to make a lively race for the $3,600, which the stake amounts to if four run. The remaining nine of the fifty are one of mile heats, for a sum of $600 to a selling sweepstake of $25 each, with $600 added, mile and a quarter, and a handicap hurdle-race for a purse of $500.

THIRD DAY—TUESDAY, OCT. 11.

The Grand National Handicap race ushers in the third day's sport. It is a sweepstakes of $100 each, half forfeit, with $1,000 added, of which the second horse receives $200; two miles and a quarter. The entries are:

A. M. H. SANFORD's b. g. Niagara, 4 years, by Lexington, dam Young Lady, 100 pounds. A. BELMONT's b. h. Glenelg, 5 years, by Glaucus, dam Bubble, 112 pounds. J. MORRIS' br. c. Cassius, 4 years, by Monarch, dam Magnolia, 94 pounds. J. BACON & HOLLADAY's ch. c. Mozart, 3 years, by Sovereign, dam Lady Taylor, 91 pounds. J. BACON & HOLLADAY's ch. c. Tarrare, 3 years, by Lexington, dam Dolly Morgan, 91 pounds. J. BACON & HOLLADAY's b. c. Overture, 3 years, by Uncle Vic, dam Dolly Carter, 91 pounds.

This event shows a great falling off since last year, and not more than five of the above are likely to face the starter, for the prestige of Glenelg, notwithstanding the steadying weight he has been put with, will frighten away many from the race. The probable runners are Niagara, Glenelg, Tarrare, Overture and Edwards, and we think Mr. BONNORS and Mr. MORRIS' representatives will finish first and second in the race.

The second event is the Champion Stakes for three-year olds, $100 each, half forfeit, with $1,000 added, mile heats, three to start, horses to be not entered to run more than the following do battle for the rich stake on the day: Mr. BELMONT's ch. f. Finesse, or his ch. c. Telegraph; D. McDANIEL's b. c. Belmont; CARROLL & COAR's b. c. by Doswelle, dam Cousin Mary Ann; Capt. R. J. McCOMB's ch. c. Foster; Dr. CRAWFORD's b. c. Obtilleoll; J. P. MORRIS' b. f. Remoreless; J. O'DONNELL's b. c. Harlo; J. O'DONNELL's ch. f. Eclipse or his b. f. Kinsley, whichever he selects to represent his stable. We are of opinion that this race will rest between Harlo, Foster and Mr. BELMONT's representatives, and that one of the three will furnish the winner.

The third race is the Nursery Stakes for two-year olds, $50 each, play or pay, with $1,000 added, one mile; the second horse receiving $200 out of the stakes. Of the sixty youngsters entered for this valuable stake, (worth $4,000 to the winner,) we do not expect to see more than the following eight start: JOHN O'DONNELL's gr. f. Mary Louise, by Lightning; J. W. JEROME's ch. f. by Kentucky, dam Artet; D. McDANIEL's ch. c. Harry Russell, by Lexington; D. D. WITHERS's b. c. by Lexington, dam Robin; H. P. HAWES' ch. f. Lizzie, by Lexington; J. THOMAS' b. f. Aerosol, by War Dance; and perhaps one each from Mr. BELMONT's and Mr. SANFORD's stables. Judging from public running, we prefer the chances of Mary Louise, Harry Russell and the Bolds-Lexington filly to the others, and consider it funny for the fleetest and the winner, steeple-chasing, making four races, terminates the day's sport, the entries for it closing the afternoon previous.

SECOND DAY—SATURDAY, OCT. 8.

The Jerome Sweepstakes for three-year-old fillies commences the sport on the second day. The entrance is $300 each, half forfeit, with $600 added, one mile and three-quarters, and there are fifteen horses entered. Of these the following are likely to start: M. H. SANFORD's b. f. Gretchen, Bend; A. BELMONT's ch. f. Nellie James; F. MORRIS' ch. f. Remoreless; CLARK & GEISENFAUT's Flash of Lightning; H. P. McGRATH's b. f. Susan Ann, and THOMPSON & MILLER's b. f. Lady Perry. Flash of Lightning and Remoreless are the best public performers in the lot, and as the former is in the skillful training hands of ANTHONY TAYLOR, who this season accomplished such wonders with Judge Curtis and R. B. Connolly, we give her the preference over Mr. MORRIS' filly, but very important results may yet be hatched.

The Maturity Stakes for four-year olds, $400 each, half forfeit, with $1,200 added, comes next. The distance is three miles, twenty entries, with $200 for the second horse. The field of starters will not be large, for Harvey and Bonnie Lass are dead; Glenelg, Versailles, Onga, Blazeway Stone, Clemmie and Oliver P. not in training; Vespucius has hit his leg, and Catskill is in "Coventry." THIRD DAY—TUESDAY, OCT. 11.

The Grand National Handicap race ushers in the third day's sport. It is a sweepstakes of $100 each, half forfeit, with $1,000 added, of which the second horse receives $200; two miles and a quarter. The entries are:

A. M. H. SANFORD's b. g. Niagara, 4 years, by Lexington, dam Young Lady, 100 pounds. A. BELMONT's b. h. Glenelg, 5 years, by Glaucus, dam Bubble, 112 pounds. J. MORRIS' br. c. Cassius, 4 years, by Monarch, dam Magnolia, 94 pounds. J. BACON & HOLLADAY's ch. c. Mozart, 3 years, by Sovereign, dam Lady Taylor, 91 pounds. J. BACON & HOLLADAY's ch. c. Tarrare, 3 years, by Lexington, dam Dolly Morgan, 91 pounds. J. BACON & HOLLADAY's b. c. Overture, 3 years, by Uncle Vic, dam Dolly Carter, 91 pounds.

Glenelg, Tarrare, Niagara, and perhaps Sanford, are the only likely runners for this stake, which appears at the mercy of Glenelg, who has shown that he can not only go faster than any horse on the turf, but can also stay over a distance of ground. Niagara, if she is sound, stout fully, and, if in condition, (a point about which we know nothing,) she will run a good race, even although opposed to Mr. BELMONT's great crack.

The second race is the Champagne Stakes, for two-year olds, $100 each, half forfeit, with $500 added, one mile. The following are entered:

A. JOHN O'DONNELL's ch. f. Pinchem, by Australia, dam Glenella. J. M. H. SANFORD's b. f. Madame Dudley, by Lexington, dam by Flying Dutchman. J. A. BEAUCHAMP's Footbee, by Jack Lincoln, dam Orville. A. A. BELMONT's Tidal, by Kentucky, dam Verona, by Hive. R. W. JEROME's ch. f. by Kentucky, dam Blue Ribbon, by Bonnie. J. W. JEROME's ch. f. by Kentucky, dam Gilda, by Mengo. T. P. MOBLEY's ch. c. by Billycock, dam Beverly. A. P. MORRIS' ch. f. by Billycock, dam Stolen Darling. D. D. WITHERS' ch. f. Corona, by Bonnie, dam by Blinker, out of Pocahontas. M. HUNTER & TRAVERS' b. c. Lexington, by Lexington, dam Lady Grade. H. HUNTER & TRAVERS' ch. c. Collegian, by Conrad, dam Maud, by Sovereign.

Several of these are "dark" ones, but we without hesitation pin our faith on Pinchem, the daughter of the celebrated Australia and Australian, as the winner. Next comes the rich Annual Sweepstakes for three-year olds, $600 each, half forfeit, with $1,000 added; twenty-six subscribers, and two miles. The probable starters for this are M. H. SANFORD's b. c. Preakness, A. BELMONT's ch. c. Telegraph, F. MORRIS' ch. f. Remoreless, JOHN O'DONNELL's b. c. Harlo, and MOORE & COFFEY's ch. c. Foster. We will be highly-interesting race, but if Foster gets off (for he is a bad starter) we shall look for either him or Harlo to win the valuable prize. A sweepstakes of $25 each, with $600, three-quarters of a mile, has four entries.

A. A. BELMONT's b. c. His Lordship, 3 years, by Kentucky, dam Her Majesty. R. A. W. JEROME's br. f. Glaucus, 3 years, by Glaucus, dam Christina Eglantine. T. P. MOBLEY's gr. f. Felicity, 3 years, by Eclipse, dam Fidelity. J. H. G. THOMAS' br. f. Sleep, 3 years, by Knight of St. George, dam by Blue Dacia.

We unhesitatingly name Felicity as the winner, if she starts. A mile and three-quarter dash, for all ages, for a purse of $600, finishes this day's sport.

FOURTH DAY—THURSDAY, OCT. 13.

There are six races on this day, including a match. The first is the Members' Plate of $60 each, play or pay, $300 added, one mile and an eighth; the second and third two sweepstakes races at two-mile heats, a mile and five-eighths; the fourth for three-year olds, one mile and a quarter, and the sixth for two-year olds, three-quarters of a mile. The match race is for $1,000, half forfeit, one mile and a furlong, between DENISON & CRAWFORD's b. c. by Gemver, dam The Glouster, two years, and A. BELMONT's ch. c. By the Sea, by Thormanby, dam Bernice, two years.

FIFTH DAY—SATURDAY, OCT. 15.

There are six races on this, the closing day of the meeting. The first is a sweepstakes for two-year olds, $100 each, half forfeit, with $500 added, one mile and an eighth. The entries are:

A. M. H. SANFORD's b. c. Dispeaser, by Asteroid, dam Bay Leaf. A. M. H. SANFORD's b. c. Monarchist, by Lexington, dam Mildred. A. A. BELMONT's ch. c. By the Sea, by Thormanby, dam imp. Bernice. A. A. BELMONT's b. c. His Lordship, by Kentucky, dam Her Ladyship. A. A. BELMONT's b. f. Sedina, by North Lincoln, dam imp. Camilla. S. DENISON & CRAWFORD's ch. f. by Gemver, dam Julia. T. DENISON & Crawford's b. c. Stream, by Rapidan, dam of Brennoneta. S. DENISON & CRAWFORD's ch. c. by Gemver, dam Bertha. R. P. ROSEBRUGH's ch. c. Belle Chalybe, by Lexington, dam Chance. T. P. MOBLEY

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE WAR.

The British Cabinet held a meeting, yesterday, on the subject of intervention, but their action is only conjectured. One London journal says the result must disastrify the belligerents and please nobody. A Tours dispatch says the foreign representatives met, yesterday, in consequence of important news from M. THIERS. A St. Petersburg dispatch reports that the Czar had consented to receive M. THIERS only in the capacity of a private individual. The Italians in Rome exhibit strong sympathy for the French Republicans. Our London correspondent telegraphs that the Democrats in Germany are becoming more demonstrative in their protests against unnecessary humiliation of France, and arrests continue, which only strengthen the tendency to reaction. He adds that there have been no negotiations for the entry of the South German States or for extending the Constitution of the Northern Confederation to the South. The French Government is considering the subject of ordering an election for members of the Constitutional Assembly in October. It will issue a decree devolving upon the Prefects of Departments the duty of organizing the mobilized National Guard, which is to be composed of all volunteers and all men between twenty-one and forty years of age. Various measures of retrenchment have also been adopted by the administration. Lyons has become quieter, the factious disturbances having subsided. Measures to prevent a renewal have been taken. Kehl is crowded with refugees from Strasbourg, awaiting permission to return. Gen. BILLARD, who escaped from Strasbourg in disguise, has reached Lyons. Gen. BEAUREGARD, of Confederate fame, is said to be in the French service, organizing troops in the south of France.

A repulse of the Prussians is reported at Mantes. The King of Prussia reconnoitered the French position from St. Denis to Romainville on Thursday. The rivers are so low that the Prussians can wade across.

The documents discovered in the Tuileries on the flight of the Imperial family have just been published in the Journal Officiel of the Republic in Tours. M. DAVIERNE, the Judge of the Cour de Cassation, has been dismissed for his connection with the Mlle. Bellanger scandal. The Duc DE MORNY is shown to have profited largely by the Mexican bond operations. They also show that the private life of the Emperor was such as the Opposition speakers and journals represented it to be, when permitted to utter anything relating to the Empire. Marshal LEBOEUF, NAPOLEON'S Chief of Staff, is reported to have sought death in the battles around Metz, displaying the most reckless "valor." He admits that France was unprepared, but he dared not tell the Emperor the state of the army.

GENERAL EUROPEAN NEWS.

Our London correspondent says the Germans are greatly amused with the forthcoming plebiscite, regarding it as unnecessary, and carrying small cards on their breasts with their affirmative vote inscribed on it.... There is no abatement in the military preparations of Russia.... The Austrian Government has signed the Naturalization Treaty with the United States. Opposition to the election of the Count de Cortes is unpopular at Madrid.... The Cotton Brokers' Association of Liverpool have unanimously resolved to expel any member who fails to pay twenty shillings in the pound.... An explosion of fire-damp in a colliery, near Tenby, England, killed one man and injured several others.

GENERAL.

Advices from Gordonsville, Va., say the North Anna has flooded the surrounding country, carrying off houses, cattle and other property. The highest flood ever known at Lynchburg prevails there now. The passenger bridge across the James River, half a mile long, has been carried away, and the depots of two railroads submerged. Water washed into the main gas-pipe, and extinguished all the lights in Lynchburg. Laborers employed on an island below the city are cut off. At Richmond the river rose a foot at 3 P. M. yesterday, and merchants were removing goods to places of safety. A later dispatch from Richmond says the flood reached that city in a wave five feet high, raising the river six feet in twenty minutes. The Orange and Alexandria Railroad bridge at Lynchburg, has also been carried away.

Two of the Lime Rock Bank robbers were sentenced, yesterday, at Rockland, Me., to seven years imprisonment in the State Prison.

The census shows that Dutchess County contains 86,403 males and 37,870 females, and 21,712 voters.

A volcano, near San Rafael Valley, Lower California, is in violent eruption, emitting smoke, ashes and cinders.

Capt. STRAUSS, of the United States steamer Guerriere, telegraphs from Hyannis, Mass., that the vessel is off the shoals, and will reach this City on Monday.

It is claimed at the District-Attorney's Office that JOHN H. CURTIS was held to bail in $2,500 before Justice COX, on the complaint of Mr. HUGHES, HENRY HARTMAN, of No. 428 Grand-street, became his bondsman. The bond is now in the possession of the Clerk of the Court of Special Sessions.

PATRICK MURPHY deliberately shot JAMES WOOD in a barn, in Hartford, with the object of committing robbery, on Thursday night. WOOD is dangerously wounded, and MURPHY has escaped.

An English bank robber named CHRISTOPHER JONES, was arrested in Toronto, Canada, on the 29th inst., for robbing the London and County Bank seven years ago. He was traced by his family rejoining him in Canada, where he was known as Hadwell.

The Supreme Court of the United States meets on the 21st of October, in continuance of the last December term. The case of Mrs. MYRA BRADWELL, whose petition for a license as an attorney in Illinois was referred, will come up on a writ of error at this term.

The Court of Claims will meet on the first Monday in November.

Today and from this time forward, in accordance with a resolution of the Milk-dealers Union, the retail price of milk will be twelve cents, and the wholesale price ten cents per quart.

"The Times" and the Ring.

We have the satisfaction of entering upon the second stage in our assaults upon the "Ring." The first was marked by several overtures to us on the part of Tammany to keep silent—"for a consideration." This having failed, the second arm of Tammany is to be brought into play—namely, the arm of ruffianism. The World is not above doing its duty in any sphere of life to which it may please TWEED to call it. Having only a few months ago denounced the Erie and Tammany "Rings" as the greatest frauds ever committed at the expense of a free people, it now meekly puts on the Tweed collar again, and licks the hands of the men who have so often spurned it. It does not often fall to the lot of a journal to be a double traitor within six months. First the World fed at the stall of the "Young Democracy," and bullied the "Ring." Now it has gone over to the fatter meadows of Tammany, and kicks the Young Democracy. Mr. TWEED and his minions may safely say that it is quite ready to do any of their dirty work.—

"And having brought our treasure where we will,
Then take we down his load, and turn him off,
Like to the empty ass, to shake his ears,
And graze in commons."

Now, what is the World's defense of TWEED & Co. from the charges we have brought against them? Is it that those charges cannot be substantiated? Not at all, for the World itself has made more damaging accusations against the "Ring" than we have lately done. It asked on February the 16th:

"Can this talent be the culminating point of the enterprise, the culture, the wealth, and the power of the continent, yet its people be incapable to shake off the rule of the dozen sordid men of selfish hearts and narrow brains who have plundered us of millions yearly, obstructed our material growth, made our markets, our wharves and piers and streets, mere monuments of their rapacity, our elections a farce, and now have put up Judges in our very Court-houses to sell injustice for a price?"

Now it is somebody else who appears to have been sold "for a price." But the World cannot refute our charges. Therefore it obeys the commands of its new masters, and deals out personal attacks and insinuations in the style for which it is famous. It is the old business. The very existence of the "Ring" is menaced, and in its alarm it orders some of its bravos to steal out and see whether they cannot bludgeon the supposed accusers. The World is at home in such work. It begins by garbling and falsifying a quotation from this paper, in which we are made to ascribe to Mr. TWEED the possession of ten "million pounds sterling." Those words never appeared in this journal. The word sterling was indeed printed, but we never intended to apply such an expression to Mr. TWEED or any of his friends. "Ten millions stolen" was the proper sentence; but a man's case must be very bad when, in answer to the gravest charges that can be brought against his friends, he can only haggle over a word, like a quarrelsome old woman in a fish market.

But the World has yet another "argument" to offer. For the second time within a week, it insinuates that we have a private motive for attacking the Tweed infamies. "To-morrow," it says, "we will lay bare the motive." Why "to-morrow?" Wouldn't yesterday have answered the purpose as well? Is it fair to keep us twenty-four hours in this fearful state of suspense? But now, lest this turn-coat should forget his promise, or have an access of common sense which may prevent him keeping it, we will tell our readers what the awful disclosures of the World are going to be. The plunderers of Tammany and the City Hall have been going about for a week past comforting each other with the whisper that the TIMES' grievance is that the Corporation owes it money for advertising, which indeed it cannot not. This is, in substance, the rock-and-bull story which the World has received from Mr. NATHANIEL SANDS, or somebody like him. We might well afford to treat the stupid statement with contempt, but since the World's instructions are to din it into the ears of its readers, we will once for all devote a few words to it.

Part of our business is to publish advertisements. That is one reason why we keep our office open. There is no secrecy about it—we publish advertisements which are brought to us, at a fixed price, which is or may be known to all our readers. If the Corporation bring us advertisements, we publish them—just as we do when Mary Smith brings us her advertisement for a situation. If the Corporation owes us money, it will doubtless pay it—or if it did not, we should resort to ordinary forms of law to compel it. But we ask the public to remember this—twice, during the past week, agents of Tammany have been sent to our office to make proposals for the purpose of silencing us. We have been given to understand that it will be made made "worth our while" to desist from attacking the Tweed Ring. In each case we gave the agent the only proper reception fit for him—and he then, probably, made straight for the World office, where he was pretty sure to be received with open arms.

Let the public also observe this fact: TWEED and his hirelings cannot disprove our accusations against them. We drag them by the collar before the public, and charge them plainly with defrauding the tax-payers. What line of defense do they set up—that they are innocent? No—but that they owe their accuser some money, and therefore he has dragged them to justice. Why, for the matter of that, they have cheated almost everybody of something. We should certainly never make it a special ground of complaint if they cheated us.

Suppose even that their imputation were well founded—does it exculpate them from the charge of robbing the public purse? Does the thief in the dock get off scot free if he can prove that he owed or owes some money to the policeman who arrested him? If so, every debtor would find it to his advantage to turn highway robber. If the City authorities were not taking a last leave of their senses, they would never allow their lackeys to defend them in this blundering manner. They can testify that we have never asked them for favors of any kind, and as for our warfare against the "Ring," does not every well-informed man in the community know that we have persisted in it for years; that it is not peculiar to any person or persons now or at any other time in our service, but is a part of the settled policy of a journal which at least has always striven to serve the public faithfully, has never levied "blackmail," or made itself the instrument of scoundrels in office, and has never given cause for one insinuation against its purity, from the first number to the present hour? Our record is clear—we wish, for the sake of journalism, that we could say the same of the World. That paper, of all others, to dare to deal out insinuations against the motives of its contemporaries! It has no regard for decency or truth; but should not common prudence suggest to it the propriety of leaving it to some person who does not live in a house all of glass, to come forward against us?

We shall assuredly not allow the World to throw dust in the eyes of the public by any charges or insinuations it may choose to make. It gives us its idea of journalistic honor by endeavoring to assign one or other of our articles to particular writers. That is simply a piece of insolence. It is no concern of the World's who writes the articles in our columns, but it is its duty to answer the charges contained in these articles, if it can. We employ writers to treat on public questions, as all respectable journals do, and we do not expect Tammany to pay those writers. If one man did not serve us faithfully, we should turn him over to the World, and get another writer whom we could trust. For years past we have carried on this war against the Democratic scum, whenever there was the faintest hope of accomplishing any good by it. Whether one man, or twenty men, write articles for us, is our business alone. The public does not expect us to state who writes this or that article in our columns, and the World is guilty of a gross impertinence in attempting any conjectures on the subject. We are responsible, as a public journal, for all that we publish, and no one person has any right to take the credit or blame of anything which appears in our columns. The World may be very sure of one thing—that we shall always be able to find writers who hate thieves, turn-coats, and swindlers, and who will never be afraid to hold such rascals up to the execration of mankind.

Russia's Opportunity.

"Russia retires within herself," said Prince GORTSCHAKOFF at the end of the Crimean War. "There is no abatement in the military preparations of Russia," is the language of this morning's telegrams. Between the two phrases there lies a Muscovite epoch with a wonderful history. With the issue of the latter begins a new era for Russia and the world. For the Empire of the Czar is not merely a dynasty—it is a civilization; not merely a great Power, but the embodiment of a great principle and the promise of a social revolution. CAVOUR once said to a Russian diplomatist, "the equal rights you give your peasants to the soil are more dangerous to us Westerns than your armies." The Russia that England and France fought fifteen years ago exists no longer. The eternally repressive system of NICHOLAS is as dead as the choleric old Emperor himself. Within less than half a generation, twenty-three millions of bondmen have been set free; public opinion has grown, apparently out of nothing, to be a power in the State; the Government may be criticised without the critic being sent to Siberia, and where all was torpor and reaction there is now a ferment of intellectual activity and of bold political theorizing. "We have everywhere, in the world, to set the blunder free." So wrote Alexander II to the Russian diplomatist, and apart from the lamentable extravagances of the nihilists, communism in Russia is a different creed from what is vociferated under the same name by certain dreamers in western Europe and among ourselves. The commune is the unit of Russian political life. Each member of it is responsible for the other, and the Government deals with it through the Starost, or head of the community, as an individual. The land appertaining to an agricultural village is cultivated for the common good; individual ownership is reckoned an exceptional condition of property, and collective possession the normal one. There, however, the communistic theory ends, and unless among certain extremists, no intention is ever professed to vulgarize the most sacred relations of life by applying to them the co-operative economy of the farm.

Such considerations are perfectly relevant to the new appearance of Russia in the active arena of European politics. A competent observer remarked of the Crimean War, that it was supported by public opinion mainly "because it saw an opportunity of striking a heavy blow at the stolid Power which lent itself to prop up every decaying throne and every worn-out authority from the Vistula to the ocean." The British Cabinet had certainly ulterior views in going to war for the preservation of Turkey, but these are of little consequence today, since even were the present Ministry disposed to adopt the foreign policy of PALMERSTON, there exists no national sentiment based either upon the chimera of a "balance of power," or upon any special antagonism to Russia, which would support them in disputing with that Power the possession of the "sick man's inheritance." France cannot interfere, even if she would, and Great Britain will not. The time for substituting a fresh and aggressive civilization for one that is effete and thoroughly rotten could scarcely, therefore, be better chosen. With her seat of government on the Dardanelles, Russia would enter the fraternity of European Powers, as she can never thoroughly do while her head is hidden among the clouds and snow of the far north. Turkey is an Asiatic barbarism that apes western civilization. It is past being patched; sooner or later it must be reformed out of existence altogether. More may at least be expected of the civilization of the Sklav than of that of the Mongol. The world generally would regard with not a little complacency the burying out of sight of the diseased body politic that calls itself the Ottoman Empire.

That the warlike preparations of Russia are directed against Turkey there can be little doubt. The Czar has gone out of his way to express his sympathy with the progress of the German arms, by both personal and official marks of esteem. Russian diplomacy will make no bugbear out of a united Germany. The intermeddling of France with Poland has found no precedent in the policy of Prussia. The probability is that the neutrality of Russia, which was worth three armies to the Germans, was purchased at the outset, by the wily BISMARCK, with some such concessions as he dangled before NARGLIOW in the Austrian campaign, only to withdraw them when his purpose was served. Wiser than the French Emperor, ALEXANDER II. does not await the completed success of his slippery friend to extort fulfillment of the promise. It may probably be easier for Prussia to leave Russia to her own course in the East, when she is fully occupied with France, than to sit with folded hands after she has finished her work, and see another secure a rich prize. The time, therefore, is well chosen, but, with all favorable conditions, who can tell when the blow descends, what may be the results? Beside a great German Empire, extending from the Inn to the sea, Austria scarcely remains one of the great Powers of Europe. With Russia on the Danube, she could not fail to sink into the position of a second-rate one, leaving but two great Continental States. It would be contrary to all precedent, were changes so momentous to be effected without a great enlargement of the existing area of hostilities. As the year enters on its last quarter the shadows cast by the rising clouds grow deeper, and the future appears more dark and inscrutable. Ere these three months have closed there may probably have settled over Europe a dismal twilight of disaster and gloom, never before exceeded.

That Poor Mr. Jackson.

That the community has not been shocked by a repetition of the Nathan tragedy is due, partly to lack of nerve in the burglar surprised on Sunday morning in Clinton-place, and partly, perhaps, to the stout resistance offered by his intended victim. If the blow which only stunned Mr. WOHLGEMUTH had killed him, the probability is that the assassin would have escaped, and another would have been added to the list of mysterious murders which make such a foul blot on the reputation of our City. On this occasion there seems no reason to doubt the identity of the person who was taken into custody as the burglar. He was recognized by Mr. WOHLGEMUTH and by the officer who first pursued him, at whom he discharged two pistol shots. A revolver with two chambers empty, and a set of brass knuckles, were found on his person, and the shoes left behind in the hallway of the house by the robber fitted his stockinged feet. We trust that his trial will be speedy, and that, if convicted, his punishment will be severe enough to deter other ruffians from similar outrages. Only by unremitting vigilance on the part of the Police, and the sternest enforcement of the laws by the ministers of justice, can this present riot of crime be checked.

And while we are on the subject of murderers, let us respectfully request of our Dictator if it might not be as well to arraign Mr. JACKSON, the Court officer, for that little eccentricity which resulted in the death of a huckless bill-sticker a year or more ago. To be sure the Dictator may think that the bill-sticker probably deserved his fate, for he was putting up posters for the opponents of TWEED, and Mr. JACKSON, perhaps, only performed his duty by preventing that nefarious employment. But then, on the other hand, there is a law against killing or maiming a citizen, which, although nearly obsolete in this City, has never, to our knowledge, been repealed. And if it only to give Mr. JACKSON a chance to justify himself, he should be put on trial at once. Then, if it be intended to acquit him, he may be released in time to do yeoman's service to his party at the coming election. And even if, on the contrary, it be thought advisable to hang him, absurdly wasteful as it may seem to hang a Democrat before election, yet his execution may be made to point a moral that will be worth almost as much to his masters as his ready votes or his reader revolver. It has been whispered by certain of the disaffected that REAL was hung, not for so slight a thing as murdering a policeman, but for the much more heinous crime of standing by the Young Democracy. Here is a chance for Tammany to vindicate itself from this stupid supposition, and to prove that its justice is superior to partisan prejudice. To JACKSON himself it would doubtless be a boon to be relieved from confinement and suspense. The District-Attorney will rejoice and make exceeding glad over the possession of another empty pigeon-hole, for the storage of those embarrassing indictments that inconsiderate Grand Juries will be sure to present after November. And as for the public—a purely disinterested party—surely Mr. TWEED has not forgotten the old story of ALCIBIADES and his dog. What can be better than a murder trial to amuse the public, and keep it from giving too much attention to Mr. TWEED'S tax levies, or Mr. TWEED'S stables?

"Why Attack Mr. Tweed?"

Senator TWEED'S treachery to the City, by increasing whose taxes he has become "one of its heaviest tax-payers," inspires a resentment which every honest Democrat in New-York will share with their faithful representatives in the Senate and Assembly. Here we are, pinndered by him and such as him in all open and public, in all private and dishonest ways. He thrives on percentages of pilfering, grows rich on the distributed dividends of rascality. His extortions are as boundless in their sum as in their ingenuity. Streets unopened profit him; streets opened put money in his purse. Paving an avenue with a poultice enriches him; taking off the poultice increases his wealth. His rapacity, like the trunk of an elephant, with equal skill twists a fortune out of the Broadway widening and picks up dishonest pennies in the Bowery. And the system which shields, fosters, and prolongs him and his rapacious tribe he refuses to reform altogether, or consents to reform in part only long enough to betray those who believed his word.

—Before going any further, we may as well say that we found the above excellent paragraph in an editorial in the World, of March 28, 1870. It seems so apt a quotation at the present moment, is so true in every particular, and affords so beautiful a commentary on the World's attitude now, that we ventured to reprint it. Pray let our readers compare it with the articles the World is now publishing in defense of TWEED, and let them ask themselves what can be the cause of so great a change?

Minor Metropolitan Reforms.

In a country where the railroad system has reached a development unprecedented elsewhere, the petty inconveniences to which travelers are subjected may well cause astonishment. As some of the discomforts complained of need only better organization and but slight expenditure to insure their removal, it may be well to particularize them. Firstly, comes the matter of starting trains. This operation is usually accomplished in a manner which reaches the perfection of informality. No bell is rung, no warning given, but suddenly and silently the massive load starts into activity. The stranger has scarcely overcome his surprise at the unceremonious manner in which he is thus spirited away, when a wayside depot is reached and the engine comes to a halt. Straining his eyes and ears to obtain some intimation of the name designating the locality, the new-comer succeeds in learning it shortly after the train has, in the same silent and almost imperceptible manner as at the start, again proceeded on its way. No name-boards mark the various depots, nor, on most lines, do the conductors condescend to inform the passengers of their whereabouts.

Another matter of which travelers, new or old, justly complain, is the incessant pedling, which goes on from start until arrival, by lads, whose efforts to obtain a livelihood have become an intense nuisance, which it behooves the companies to put down. No one will object to this practice in moderation; but the modus operandi of the youthful dealers in maple candy, prize bon-bon boxes, &c., is to deposit a box of their choice confections in the lap of each individual in the car, imposing on him or her the necessity of carefully tending it, or submitting to a claim for payment, often couched in most improper language, if it becomes injured. If such articles are to be hawked about—and some people, doubtless, like to invest in them, or the custom would die out—let them be sold in the ordinary manner. There is a spice of bullying into purchase about the means adopted, which is, to ladies especially, extremely disagreeable.

While it is possible that no increase of receipts would follow the abolition of these minor nuisances, or the better organization which would insure additional security to travelers upon unfamiliar lines, we may hope that such cheap though needed reforms will not be altogether overlooked. Directors are, in the main, anxious to popularize their lines; and after the great element of safety, that of comfort and convenience find a second place. Gilded wood-work and velvet cushions are well enough, but are not the sole constituents of a pleasant transit. Trifles as such matters are, they affect that sum of happiness which the proverb informs us is but an aggregation of insignificant details.

After six months of fine weather, it was rather hard that the day set apart for the funeral obsequies of Admiral FARRAGUT should be one of uninterrupted rain. Had the weather been uniformly fine, the procession would undoubtedly have been one of the most imposing ever witnessed in this City. The arrangements were excellent, and reflected great credit on the Mayor, who personally superintended them all, and devoted days of hard work to the task. These exertions of the Mayor deserve the warmest acknowledgment. The military portion of the display was exceedingly good—the Seventh, Ninth, and other regiments marching with an evenness and regularity which they could hardly have surpassed if their course had taken them over dry ground, instead of through blinding rain, mud and slush. The men were all soaked through to the skin, and we much fear that some of them will suffer from the exposure they had to encounter. But they went through with their duty in a manner worthy of soldiers. The firemen are used to water as well as fire, and therefore did not seem to mind the weather very much. Although the day was as unfavorable as it could be, the display was a very grand one, and it will be a satisfaction to many thousands all over the land to know that the greatest sailor of his age was carried to the grave in a manner worthy of the country he had served.

A statue has mysteriously disappeared from the City. We wish we could add that it was the statue of Mr. LINCOLN, from Union-square, for a rifler outrage than that on a great man was never perpetrated. The shattered statue, however, is that of GEORGE WASHINGTON, from City Hall Park. In the meanwhile, the City Park itself is being made to resemble as much as possible the primeval chaos out of which all things sprung. It is a very perfect emblem of the entire City Government, and represents completely the sort of "improvements" which the "Ring" intend to make in Central Park.

Democracy is the true solvent of international antipathies. There is a certain solidarity among freemen all over the world, which is coming out in the daily-increasing opposition of German Liberals to the undue humiliation of republican France. Up till now the prominent German revolutionists of 1849 have fought side by side with the loyalist, and the believer in Divine right. But now that the unity of fatherland is beyond all danger, the democrats begin to show their abhorrence of a war which threatens to become one against popular freedom. Prussian discipline is stern and rigid—also the opinions that are being expressed in the city might, are now, have found utterance in the camp.

When LAMARTINE boldly assailed the red flag as the one that "had only made the tour of the Champs de Mars, drenched in the blood of the people," while the tri-color had made the tour of Europe, he was declaiming against a danger that may prove as fatal now as it did during the second Republic. The restless and impetuous southern populace of Lyons continue still to divide the unity of the French democracy. They seem unable to await the repulse of the invader before discussing the fitness of the socialistic régime for France. It is fortunate for the Republic that there seems to be no indication of a general disposition to follow their ominous example.

The story of LEBOEUF seeking death on the field of battle is probably as apocryphal as a similar proceeding which was reported of the Emperor. The statement that the Ex-Minister of War knew the unpreparedness of France for war, and dared not say so to the chief of the State, reads like the sham penitence of a sham General and a corrupt statesman. Such men do not walk up to the enemy's guns, as the unfortunate Gen. DOUAY did at Wissembourg. To die like an ancient Roman is certainly not the highest type of bravery, but it is quite above the range of a man who belonged to the genus of the modern army contractor.

It is not necessary to be an upholder of the dynasty of the BONAPARTES in order to admire the stubborn constancy of Marshal BAZAINE, who, hemmed in at Metz, cut off from all communications, with constantly diminishing forces and starvation in prospect, yet refuses either to capitulate or to recognize the Republic. "My Emperor placed me at this post: I shall hold it till I fall," he is reported to have said to JULES FAVRE at their late interview. The incident reminds one of the story of poor CASABIANCA, at the Nile. The French Army, though beaten, need not be ashamed of its heroes. The names of MCMAHON, ULRICH and BAZAINE are not likely to be either unhonored or forgotten; and there is many another instance of obscurer devotion to show that France, however unfortunate, and perhaps deservedly so, still has reason to be proud of her children.

England has, it appears, made up her mind to make one last appeal for peace on the basis of the dismantling of the fortresses of Eastern France. The value of such interposition may be measured by the motives that are said to inspire it. The attitude of Russia is threatening, therefore the British Cabinet sagaciously concludes that it may find find the want of its old ally, should it be necessary to make a stand on the old quarrel. Prussia is very unlikely to take heed of any suggestion offered in such a spirit at such a time, and France will be able to appreciate at its proper value the friendship that lay dormant till self-interest awakened it.

Liberal Club—The Treasury of the United States Arraigned.

At the weekly meeting of the Liberal Club, last evening, at Plimpton Hall, Mr. ALEXANDER DELMOR made an address on the powers and duties of the United States Treasury Department. There were, he said, forty-two vessels in the revenue service, the most of which had nothing to do. In the Treasury Department at Washington there were about 800 females at the present time; they are under the charge of numerous officers. The Secretary of the Treasury, he said, does not know how many offices he has under him. It was a peculiarity of office-holders to so manage that their services will be indispensable. The old officials of forty and fifty years' standing at Washington never let any one know what they are doing or how it is done. It was so with all the offices of the Treasury Department, from the highest to the lowest. It was so in BUCHANAN'S reign and so in LINCOLN'S. None of the books there are kept by double entry. They never take an account of stock there. In the Revenue and Treasury Departments such a state of things could not be. When the war ended the value of property of the Government sold at auction was not less than $6,000,000; it was disposed of for less than one-quarter of that sum. The speaker said that Mr. SPINNER to-eight milk cheat the people of the United States out of $200,000,000, and yet he knew that Mr. SPINNER would not do such a thing, because he was too honest.

Mr. MORAN, Mr. WEBLE, the Secretary of the Club, and others made remarks in opposition to the speech of Mr. DELMOR, and the meeting adjourned.

MME. SEEBACH AS VALERIE.

Mme. MARIE SEEBACH made her third dramatic essay here, last night, in the character of Valerie. The weather was unpropitious, and a certain footnote that is rarely mistaken doubtless warned the public of the slight, and in a broad sense unpopular, nature of the entertainment offered. Yet that entertainment was of an exceedingly high order, and such as it would improve our audiences to learn better to appreciate. There are no effects of scenery, or costume, or startling situation in the little sketch—for it is hardly more—seen in Fourteenth-street on this occasion. It is a domestic story of the slightest and yet of the most affecting description; and the impression produced in it by the actress, if less profound than that of parts of Margaret, and nearly the whole of Mary Stuart, is not less creditable to her culture and talent.

"Valerie," one of SCRIBE'S prettiest domestic dramas, was once made famous by the acting of Mlle. MARS. The writer of the play-house translation era, however, in saying that the play has hitherto been familiar only to the French and German stages. It was frequently acted in English, some years ago, under another name, by the celebrated Miss F. H. KELLY. The performance of Miss KELLY was so highly approved by the London critics, that they gave it unusual and careful commendation. Intrinsically, "Valerie," as we have hinted, is slight enough. It is, in a sense, the opposite of BAYLE BERNARD'S "Lucille." In the latter the lover is blind; in the former, his fiancée. Each is made apprehensive of the fidelity of the other because of change of fortune, and all are made happy in the sequel in "Valerie," no less than in "Lucille." In "Valerie," however, the lady's admirer unites the qualities of lover and oculist, and the antithesis is not sustained by a parallel in the world of the heroine to correspond with that of St. Cyr. The same domestic sympathies, however, are pleasantly awakened in both cases. In both tenderness, fidelity and the spirit of self-sacrifice move our respect and admiration. There is a delicacy about the style of Mme. SEEBACH which is well adapted to such a character. Too ladylike, as well as too well-balanced in intellect and culture to be melo-dramatic, Mme. SEEBACH never loses hold of the esteem of her audience, and never dissipates the illusion of the scene by exaggeration. It is unfortunately that, for many of her public, not a little of what is finest in the lady's acting is imperfectly appreciated. Germany is more popular here than her language. The Fatherland is, no doubt, held in higher esteem by most people than France. And yet, by a strange but sufficiently intelligible inconsistency, had Mme. SEEBACH acted in French, and displayed the same excellencies as in German, her success would doubtless have been more solid and assured.

In some situations of "Valerie" Mme. SEEBACH is especially admirable. Her first recognition of her lover, her grief at the end of the second act over his supposed loss, her burst of overwhelming joy over the recovery of her sight are unsurpassed in their way, and have supreme pleasure to the most intelligent of her audience. Mme. SEEBACH was called before the curtain at the end of each act. The amusing trifle, "Eine Tasse Thee," concluding the evening's bill, has been nicely translated by the lady from the French. It affords good scope for the exhibition of a cleverness and ease in light comedy rarely possessed by tragic artists, and was received with many tokens of satisfaction. On Monday Mme. SEEBACH repeats her fine impersonation of Mary Stuart.

NILSSON CONCERT.

The sixth entertainment of the first series of Nilsson concerts was given at Steinway Hall, last evening. The house was quite filled, and the performance was in no respect less notable—save, perhaps, in novelty of programme—than each of the earlier nights of the season. Miss NILSSON first sang "Ah! fors'e lui," which she interpreted on the occasion of her first appearance; then as now performing the allegro movement of that familiar composition with all the spirit to be expected of an artist who endows the mad scene from AMBROISE THOMAS' "Hamlet" with such remarkable lyric variety. Mlle. NILSSON afterward rendered the well-known scena and rondo from "Lucia;" the difficulties of the latter being overcome with wondrous ease and charm. Miss NILSSON sang, for her third contribution to the concert, "Home, Sweet Home." As each of her efforts were rapturously redemanded, it is not strange that her repertory should not be more liberally drawn upon than it has been as yet. Her associates fully shared her success. Miss CARY sang with all her richness of voice and purity of execution the contralto's air from "Semiramide," and was recalled amid great applause. Signor BRIGNOLI rendered the romance from "I Puritani," commencing "O Paradiso in terra." "Di Provenza," from "La Traviata" was executed by Signor VERGER with much sentiment. The remainder of the programme consisted of the duet "Libert Siete," from "Belisario," by Signori BRIGNOLI and VERGER, of a duet from "Il Trovatore," by Miss CARY and Signor BRIGNOLI, of the "Fantaisie Caprice" of M. VIEUXTEMPS, and of the "Rhapsodie Hongroise," by Mlle. ANNA MEHLIG, the born interpreter—among pianists of the gentler sex—of the magnificent music of LISZT. The second Nilsson matinée takes place today.

INDIA AND ENGLAND.

Farewell Soiree to Baboo Keshub Chunder Sen—A Hindoo's Views of Civilized Society.

From the Daily News, Sept. 13.

Last evening a farewell soiree was given at the Hanover-square Rooms, in honor of Baboo KESHUB CHUNDER SEN. The chair was taken by Mr. C. THOMAS, President of the British and Foreign Unitarian Association. There was a numerous attendance, the large hall being full, the majority, as usual on these occasions, being ladies. The meeting was addressed by Revs. Prof. Plumptre, W. Brock, W. Iorson, G. Murray, Dawson Burns, and Miss Emily Faithfull, and also by Mr. Chunder Sen. Mr. SEN said nearly six months had elapsed since his arrival in England. The first thing that struck him when he arrived here was the brilliancy and splendor of the shops, and the next thing was the extent to which the art of advertising was pushed. He passed through a forest of advertisements. Then he was struck with the activity of the people, and he found that John Bull was

GENERAL EUROPEAN NEWS.

The Romans and the Plebiscite—Russian War Preparations—The Rose of the Captain—American Naturalization Treaty—Spanish Affairs—The Liverpool Cotton Brokers.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The proposed plebiscite greatly amuses the Roman people, and they show their sense of its uselessness by carrying cards pinned on their breasts with the antiplebiscite affirmative inscribed thereon. R.

There is no abatement in the military preparations of Russia. At the arsenal at Kiev 800 percussion muskets are daily turned into breech-loaders.... The investigation into the Captain disaster is now pending here. Correspondence was read, showing that Capt. COLES, of the Naval Construction Bureau, was dissatisfied because his views had been modified in the building of the Monarch, and asked and received a carte blanche in regard to the Captain.

VIENNA, Sept. 30.—The Naturalization treaty with the United States has been signed by the Austrian Government.

MADRID, Sept. 30.—Admiral TOPETE and other Signors who protest against the call of the Constituent Cortes, are extremely unpopular at Madrid.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 30.—The members of the Liverpool Cotton Brokers' Association held a meeting, yesterday, and unanimously passed a resolution that henceforth any member failing to pay twenty shillings to the pound should be expelled.

Antonelli and the Romans—The Russian Armament.

ROME, Sept. 30.—Cardinal ANTONELLI bids the Romans to treat with the Italians, and promises Gen. CADORNA that he shall have an early opportunity of conferring with the Pope.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 30.—The Journal, of this city, (official organ,) emphatically denies the report of Russia's purchase of new iron-clad steamers from the United States Government. It also formally denies the stories of the concentration of Russian troops on the Turkish frontier and the recall of Gen. IGNATIEFF, the Russian Ambassador at Constantinople. The Journal adds, the Russian policy is one of peace and justice.

The Newmarket Races—Fire-Damp Explosion.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—At the Newmarket races today, the Newmarket October Handicap, a sweepstake of sovereigns each, 5 forfeit, with 100 added by the Jockey Club, for three years old and upward, was won by Mr. M. DAWSON's b. c. Rhue, by Blair Athol, out of Theresa.

An explosion of fire-damp in a colliery near Tenby, killed one man and injured several others.

THE VIRGINIA FLOODS.

Lynchburg Partially Submerged—The James River Bridge Carried Away—Gas Extinguished—Apprehension at Richmond—The North Anna Overflowing.

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 30.—The highest freshet ever known at Lynchburg prevails there now. The passenger bridge across the James River, a quarter of a mile long, was washed away last night. The depots of the Orange and Alexandria Railroad and the Virginia and Tennessee Railroad are submerged. The canal is submerged, and the boats are drifting about over the tow-path and through the lower streets of the city. The water washed up the main gas-pipe, last night, and Lynchburg was suddenly enveloped in total darkness. A large number of employes on the South-side Railroad are cut off on an island below the city. The freshet will reach Richmond about 3 o'clock P. M. today. The river here has already risen a foot. In the lower portion of the city the residents are busy removing their goods to places of safety. The telegraph lines are down in all directions. Superintendent KAYES, of the Western Union Line, telegraphs this morning that a number of buildings at Lynchburg have been swept away, and that the gas and the water works are both submerged. Houses from the country above have been floating by all night and this morning. The new iron bridges of the South-side Railroad were carried away this morning.

A telegram from Gordonsville says the North Anna River is flooding all the surrounding country. Houses, cattle and barrels of flour have been floating down stream all the morning.

Later from Richmond—A Wave Five Feet High Sweeps Down the River.

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 30.—The flood reached at 12½ o'clock in a wave five feet high, and in twenty minutes the river rose six feet. There was great excitement in the lower part of the city in removing goods from places accessible to the water. The Orange Hotel, and the Orange and Alexandria Railroad bridges, at Lynchburg, were swept away this morning.

The Destruction at Gordonsville—A Rise of Ten Feet at Richmond—The River at Lynchburg.

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 30.—A dispatch from Gordonsville says that the accounts which come in about the flood represent the disasters as exceeding the first reports. The Orange and Alexandria Railroad bridge over the Rockfish River is reported to have been swept away. The bridges over the river and Moore's Creek, on the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, are also gone. BUELING'S and WELLS' two mills are both going down the River Anna with 400 barrels of flour afloat around them. A dwelling-house completely furnished went by this afternoon. The river is filled with the débris of barns, furniture, agricultural implements, crops, &c. All the crops on the lowlands are a total loss. The telegraph lines to Lynchburg and the West are badly damaged. Vice-President WICKHAM, of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad is between Greenwood and Waynesboro with two trains, unable to advance or recede. Superintendent VAN DERCRIFT, of the Orange and Alexandria Railroad, went to the break at Moor's Creek with a train this afternoon. The water has risen at this city (Richmond) ten feet since noon. This water is from the River Anna; that from Lynchburg will strike here about midnight. The water at Lynchburg is twenty-five feet higher than ever known before.

LYNCHBURG, Va., Sept. 30—10½ P. M.—A terrible freshet is progressing here, and the river is higher than ever before known. The banks are submerged at the Tennessee Depot. At 10½ P. M. the large toll bridge, 800 yards long, between here and Amherst, gave way with a crash. There is great danger of the structure forcing away the new bridges of the South-side Railroad spanning both prongs of the river at the island. It is reported that one bridge at this end is now giving way. The Orange, Alexandria and Manassas Railroad Depot is submerged, and the canal is overflowing its banks. The boats are coming upon the tow-path, and everything in the vicinity of the canal and river, along the front of the city, is under water. The city is in total darkness, the main gas-pipe supplying the city having been washed away. The excitement is great. It is still raining heavily, and the river is rising rapidly. The railroad employes on the South-side Island are cut off by the water. No casualties are yet reported.

HARRISBURG, Penn., Sept. 30.—After a long dry season, a heavy rain set in on Wednesday evening, and continues now with great severity. It is feared much damage will be done. The Susquehanna has been lower than it has been for many years.

Two Ladies Drowned.

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 30.—The flood is as great in the southern as in the northern part of Virginia. The Roanoke and Staunton Rivers have risen fifteen feet, doing great damage. A dispatch from Concord says that Mrs. and Miss RUSSIN were drowned in the flood at Lynchburg, last night.

The Rio Mills on Roanoke River were among those washed away. The James River here is now (Midnight) still rising rapidly.

THE INDIANS.

Spotted Tail not Absent from his Agency—Peaceful Disposition—Report of the President of the Indian Peace Commission.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—A special dispatch from Sioux City says that arrivals from Whetstone report that SPOTTED TAIL is at the agency with all his warriors, and has not been absent. The Indians are peacefully disposed, their annuities having been delivered to them according to promise, and they declare their intention to remain quiet as long as Mr. PARKER controls their affairs.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—An official report to the Indian office from FELIX A. BRUNOT, President of the Indian Peace Commission, dated Fort Laramie, the 22d inst., mentions the arrival at that post, on the evening of the 21st inst., of Gov. CAMPBELL, of Wyoming. He sent a messenger back to hurry up the movements of RED CLOUD, who was expected to have his lodges at a point seventy miles from Laramie, and who would come in with his principal Chiefs in advance. He is expected on Monday, the 26th inst. Mr. BRUNOT writes:

"It is difficult to know with certainty what number of Indians or who of them will be here; but it is said all the Ogallallas, under RED CLOUD, and MAN-AFRAID-OF-HIS-HORSE, say 700 lodges will be in, and of the Minneconjous about the same number will follow. If the latter come we will probably tell them they must go to the Missouri River for their goods; the same also to a band of Brules. SPOTTED TAIL'S people number about forty lodges, who say they came away to get rid of whisky. RED CLOUD'S goods have arrived. As there are no goods for the Cheyennes and Arapahoes it is thought there will be much discontent. I hope, however, that if RED CLOUD'S goods are satisfactory in quantity and quality, the example of the manner in which the Government intends to treat the friendly Indians, may be used to impress them with the importance of good conduct in the future."

THE PACIFIC COAST.

Volcanic Eruption in Lower California.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 30.—Parties from Lower California report that a volcano near San Rafael Valley, which has been in a dormant state for years, has commenced a violent eruption, emitting columns of smoke, and scattering ashes and cinders for miles around its base. San Diego telegrams say it is plainly visible from there to-night. The whole southern horizon is dark with smoke.

THE WEST.

The Industrial Exposition at Cincinnati—Ten Thousand Visitors in One Day.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 30.—There were 10,000 visitors at the Industrial Exposition yesterday. The Green line excursionists were present last evening. The hall is now in full operation, and the display of machinery is the best ever seen west of the Alleghany Mountains. An appeal was made, yesterday, to the Convention of ticket-sellers now assembled at Chicago, for largely-increased railroad facilities to persons desiring to visit the Exposition. The Green line excursionists arrived here at 6 o'clock last evening. G. W. ROWLAND, President of the Chamber of Commerce, made the welcome speech at the Burnett House, and was responded to by Col. MCMASTERS, of South Carolina. The excursionists number 300 persons, from South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee and Kentucky.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 30.—The national Schutzenfest commences to-morrow. The day will be devoted to the reception of guests. Trets of shooting will continue two days.

The Western Italians and the Roman Movement—Railroad Matters Concerning Hogs.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—The Italians of Chicago will hold a mass-meeting on Sunday for the purpose of celebrating the occupation of Rome and the unity of Italy.... It is rumored here in railroad circles that Col. CHAS. G. HAMMOND is to be relieved from the superintendence of the Union Pacific Railroad, and that E. B. PHILLIPS, late superintendent of the Michigan Southern and Lake Shore Railroad, is to be appointed in his place. The reason for the withdrawal of Col. HAMMOND is said to have the origin in a local quarrel between Omaha and Council Bluffs, or rather the interests which various directors are supposed to hold in the rival towns, both of which claim the terminus of the road. It is further rumored that Col. HAMMOND has sent in his resignation, but that it has not yet been accepted.... In the Convention of General Railroad Ticket Agents, to-day, the Committee appointed to report on the questions raised by Mr. NEILSON, submitted that, fully appreciating the importance of perfecting arrangements for securing the business traffic between Australia and the Old World, they recommend that Mr. NEILSON be requested to furnish his remarks for publication, together with such other data as he thinks proper, for the use of this Association; that each member should supply his general managing officer with a copy, and invite his co-operation and influence toward obtaining the passage of a bill by Congress providing for the establishment of a first-class steam-ship line between San Francisco and Australia, which is the only link now wanting to perfect the chain of through transit. Impressed with the importance of perfecting arrangements at an early day, under which through transportation may be secured between the points referred to, we recommend the appointment of a committee by the Association, who shall represent the lines interested, and who shall confer with the representatives of the steam-ship lines and establish through rates and agree upon the necessary details.... By returns just made to the State Board of Equalization, it appears that there are 2,313,970 hogs in Illinois.

THE SOUTH.

Preparations for an Agricultural Congress and Fair at Augusta—Launch of a Steamer at Wilmington, Del.—Military Matters at Fortress Monroe.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Sept. 30.—Preparations for an Agricultural Congress, and for an annual fair of the Cotton States Fair Association, are being rapidly completed. The city authorities are making arrangements on a grand scale for the entertainment and reception of the delegates to the Congress. Every State in the South will be represented by the most prominent men. From present indications, the display of live stock, machinery and agricultural productions, promises to be the most extensive ever seen in the cotton States. The hotels and public buildings are being fitted up to accommodate comfortably the vast numbers of visitors expected. Excursion tickets will be furnished from New-York at $36 50 for the round trip, and from Baltimore at half the usual rates.

WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 30.—A new iron-clad steamer named the Hutchinson was launched in this city today by the Harlan & Hollingsworth Company. The Hutchinson is 250 feet long and about 1,500 tons burthen. She will run between New-Orleans, Galveston and Indianola. This makes the twenty-second steamer built here for one New-York owner.

FORTRESS MONROE, Va., Sept. 30.—Four companies of Artillery arrived here this evening from North Carolina, where they have been on duty during the past two months.

Surgeon JOHN E. SUMNER arrived here this morning from St. Paul, Minn., and relieved Surgeon GEO. E. COOPER, who goes to Portland, Oregon, as Medical Director.

NEW-ORLEANS, Sept. 30.—There were twelve deaths from yellow fever yesterday.

The Election Bill—All Judicial Opinions.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 30.—The so-called Akerman Election bill, postponing the election to the 20th of December, passed the House yesterday by 61 to 36 votes. An effort today to reconsider failed by 67 to 60. The galleries were crowded with operatives of the State road. Chief Justice BROWN, of the Supreme Court, declares the bill unconstitutional, and its opponents assert that its provisions favor illegal voting.

CRIMES AND CRIMINALS.

Attempted Murder and Robbery in Hartford—Counterfeiters Arrested—Murderers Arraigned in Indiana—Arrest of an English Bank Robber After Seven Years.

HARTFORD, Sept. 30.—Between 12 and 1 o'clock this morning, PATRICK MURPHY, aged twenty-two, deliberately shot JAMES WOOD, with whom he was staying one night in a sleeping-room in a barn in this city, where the latter was employed. The object was robbery, but that was prevented by WOOD'S grasping the assassin, who, after a desperate struggle, escaped. The injured man received one shot in the shoulder and another in the abdomen, and is in a dangerous condition. Detectives are searching for the attempted murderer.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 30.—BENJAMIN T. MATHEWS was arrested, yesterday, on the charge of receiving by express a large sum of counterfeit money.

LAWRENCEBURG, Ind., Sept. 30.—McDONALD CREEK and OWEN J. BAILEY, the murderers of THOMAS HARRISON, of Manchester, Ind., were produced in Court yesterday. Considerable excitement was caused by their counsel motioning for a change of venue. The people are excited, and it is feared there will be trouble if the trial is had elsewhere.

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—The trial of JOHN DONAHOE, alias John Bull, for receiving a lot of stolen jewelry, resulted in a verdict of guilty.

TORONTO, Ontario, Sept. 30.—A man named CHRISTOPHER JONES was arrested here last night for robbing the "London and County Bank," in England, of $11,000. The robbery was committed seven years ago. The prisoner was detected by his family following here, where he has been living under the name of Hadwell.

The Guerriere Again Afloat—She will Reach New-York on Monday.

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—The United States steam frigate Guerriere, from Portsmouth, N. H., for New-York, which went ashore on Great Rip, Nantucket, on the 26th inst., got off yesterday, at 3 o'clock P. M., with the assistance of the steamer Island Home.

HYANNIS, Mass., Sept. 30.—The United States frigate Guerriere was at anchor inside of Great Point, Nantucket, at 2 o'clock this morning, and in a sound condition. She was receiving on board the material of which she was lightened yesterday, and expected to get under way for New-York this afternoon.

The Guerriere is off the shoals, and will be in New-York on Monday. She has sustained no damage. (Signed,) T. H. STEVENS, Captain.

The Lime Rock Bank Robbery—Sentence of Two of Them.

ROCKLAND, Me., Sept. 30.—In the case of LITCHFIELD, the Lime Bank robber, the jury today rendered a verdict of guilty. LITCHFIELD'S counsel gave notice that they should file exceptions. The physician of DANIELS was examined, and testified that DANIELS was not in a condition to be brought into Court, and would probably live but a short time. His case was continued, his bail being fixed at $25,000. MOORE and HEINOT were sentenced to seven years' imprisonment each, and will be immediately committed to State Prison at Thomaston.

A Mormon Refused Naturalization.

SALT LAKE, Sept. 30.—In the District Court, yesterday, before Chief-Justice MCKEAN, a Mormon by the name of SANBORN applied to be naturalized. In reply to the questions of the Judge, SANBORN said that he had but one wife, but that he believed it right and according to the laws of God to marry another while his present wife is living, and although the laws of the land forbid, he thought it his duty to obey the laws of God rather than the laws of man. Entertaining different views of the laws and American citizenship, the Chief-Justice refused to naturalize him.

Miscellaneous Telegrams.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Sept. 30.—Official returns from every town show the census of Dutchess County to be 36,408 males and 37,070 females, and there are 17,712 voters. Within five years the City of Poughkeepsie has increased in population 4,015, and the towns outside the city 4,877.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 30.—The stockholders of the Mississippi River Railway have elected H. B. McCLELLAN, President; J. L. KING, B. Norton, F. M. White, S. H. Bernard, A. T. Lacy, D. M. Henning and John L. Norton, directors; A. T. Lacy, President, and John L. Norton, Secretary.

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—A brakeman, named JOHN WILSON, was killed on the Fitchburg Railroad today.

CONCORD, N. H., Sept. 30.—Rain commenced falling here at 2½, and at 9 P. M. it still continues. It was much needed.

BANGOR, Me., Sept. 30.—The drouth has at last broken. Rain commenced this evening at 8 o'clock, and up to 11 P. M. has been falling in torrents. It will afford a much-needed relief.

CHICAGO ACADEMY OF DESIGN.

A Description of the New Building—The Reception to be Given in November.

From the Chicago Tribune, Sept. 27.

The Chicago Academy of Design is an institution whose good influences in local art matters has long been felt in this city, and whose growing prosperity should be a matter of pride and congratulation with all our citizens. This circumstance is the more prominently brought before the public just now, when the new building, erected expressly for the Academy, is approaching completion.

This building—of white Athens stone, and eighty feet frontage—is located on Adams-street, near the corner of State, and has all the advantages of the new centre which wealth and enterprise have created. Without the exclusive use of the Academy of Design, it has been planned in the most approved style of an art building. The front elevation has five stories, the ground floor occupied by two large stores, and all the others by artists' studios—large, commodious rooms, very different from the quarters which are usually associated with artists. The high success which the fine arts have attained in this city is well demonstrated by the circumstance that every one of these studios have been already bespoken by Chicago artists, so that the institution, under the set order of things, will start off prosperously. The rooms have excellent light, and sealed walls instead of plaster, for the hanging of the pictures.

Beside the studios there is on the first floor above, occupying the whole length of the frontage, a handsome lecture-room, which is to be used for the art-lectures before the Academy, and rented out for such respectable entertainments and companies as may be acceptable to the Academy. Above this hall are the galleries, two of them connected together, and only two stories above ground. The larger of these is the oil-painting gallery, and the smaller the water-color and statuary gallery; and it is intended to connect a third so soon as the building to the west shall be erected. The galleries have a height of 34 feet, lighted from the top with smooth plate ground glass, which will cast a perfectly steady and somewhat subdued light upon the paintings. The walls are to be tinted, about half way up, with a delicate maroon, which, from this point, will blend gradually into white at the top. At the Academy receptions, and all other entertainments, the galleries, the halls, studios, and the lecture-rooms, are all to be thrown open.

Beside the studios, lecture hall and art galleries, the academy has large school-rooms, where 200 casts will be placed, 200 of them—the Scammon collection—being of the best antiques. This school is to be absolutely free, will always be under the personal charge of the best artists, and will work wonders for Chicago art.

One is surprised, in looking over this building, with the evidences of culture, elegance and refinement, which the prosperous condition of the academy conveys. The whole building being under the control of the Academy, it will always be known to be respectable in every way, and it will command the support of the most intelligent and excellent society of the city. The Academy requires about $10,000 to finish the building in the chaste and elegant manner with which they propose. Nearly $6,000 of this sum have already been contributed, and we are confident that the Academy will find no difficulty in securing the remainder. Pecuniary aid to the amount of $500 is requisite to obtain an honorary membership, $100 secures a fellowship, and $10 a yearly subscription—the latter only to be retained for a year or two—the fellowship in any case of the former gives to honor to the person to whom it is offered, no one of our citizens should hesitate a moment in accepting one or the other.

Sometime about the 1st of November the academy will give its opening reception, when the gallery will be filled with pictures, not one of which has ever been exhibited in Chicago. The most prominent artists will be represented, Chicago society will be there, and the occasion will be a grand one.

ITALY.

The King and the Pope—Movements of Troops—Old Plans of Peace—The Royal Agent—Internal Tranquillity—Questions of the Day—The Republic in France.

From Our Own Correspondent.

FLORENCE, Friday, Sept. 9, 1870.

By the train of last evening Count PONZA DI SAN MARTINO, Senator of Italy, set off for Rome. He is sent as special agent of the King to hold a personal interview with the Pope to reconcile, if possible, the Garibaldi to the policy of Italy, or to receive from the Holy Father his final non possumus. The agent is the bearer of an autograph letter from VICTOR EMMANUEL, understood to contain expressions of respect and deference, and to breathe the gentlest spirit of conciliation. The King's messenger, it is said, had a half-royal wagon assigned to his use on the railway train, which shows that regard is had to all that can give respect and consequence to a visit of ceremony which has very practical ends in view.

MOVEMENTS OF TROOPS.

Many regiments of the Italian Army are daily passing through Florence, and Orvieto is the central point to which the greater part of the military forces converge. The body of troops on the Roman frontier is now very large, and the crisis cannot be many more hours' delay. Well toward one hundred thousand soldiers can be spared for the Roman service, if such great numbers are needed. The whole population of the Roman State does not exceed six hundred thousand souls, and if there is no interference from the outside, the only result must be the success of such an imposing force.

OLD PLANS OF PEACE.

Some of the features of the old plans, revived for a reconciliation with Rome, have the nature of political guarantees and material compensation. The Pope is to preserve all his palaces, except that of the Quirinal, and to be absolute master in the Leonine City. The Cardinals are to be Senators of the Italian Kingdom—with the exceptional compensation of ten thousand dollars or scudi each, out of the Treasury of the Kingdom. The Pontiff is to preserve the right to regulate, without interference of the secular authority, spiritual or purely ecclesiastical affairs. On the death of the Pope, the King is to retire from the capital during the interval in which the election and installation of the successor is going on. The Pope to have a civil list, with revenues independent of any possible deficit in the general treasury, and a noble guard, made up of persons from all parts of the Kingdom of Italy, of which corps the Sovereign himself will be General-in-Chief; to give dignity and prestige, and as a sign of devotion rather than of authority.

THE ROYAL AGENT.

As for SAN MARTINO, the King's agent, various qualifications give him special fitness for the office he is named to fill. The question of Rome is so far simplified and relieved of old embarrassments, in that it is reduced to a discussion between two parties only—the Pope and his advisers, and the Government of the Kingdom of Italy. Before the present step was taken, the Cabinet put itself in communication with the leading Powers interested, notified them of its intentions, and asked an expression of opinion. It is understood that the response received was in the sense that Italy, in the actual condition of Europe, may fall back upon reserved rights, many times declared, in a constitutional manner, and act accordingly.

INTERNAL TRANQUILLITY.

This, at least, can be said, that in Italy good order and an admirable degree of quiet is up to this time maintained. It is owing to the frank declarations repeatedly made by the Government that the means at its disposal will be promptly used to hinder the execution of any schemes not sanctioned by its authority. But it is also due, in great part, I doubt not, to the prudent judgment of the leaders of the people, who perceive that more can be obtained by policy than by precipitate action. The Government has already ordered the greater part of its military forces into the field. The various classes of the reserved category, before this called back to the army, and those which have just received notice to return, will give to the military arm an aggregate of not less than 350,000 men.

QUESTIONS OF THE DAY.

No one knows to what new trials this poor Europe is to be called. The door of safety is not yet closed; indeed, wider and wider the scene opens, and fearer becomes the struggle of passions and interests. The problem of German or French supremacy is working itself out, and a united German nationality is accepted as an almost accomplished fact. Meanwhile the conflict between republican and monarchical ideas is going on. The present opportunity is seized to settle the Roman question, and at any moment the Eastern question may be thrust upon the attention of Powers already over-burdened with a multiplicity of affairs.

THE REPUBLIC IN FRANCE.

As for the Republic, its proclamation in France has awakened a warm response among all of that great party throughout Italy. At a very large public meeting held at Bologna, a day or two ago, to push on the cause of Rome, the main question was nearly lost sight of in declarations in favor of the Republic. ANGELICO.

Labor Strike at Albany—A Procession of Workmen Addressed by a Politician.

The Troy Times of the 30th says: "The stone-cutters and brick-layers on the new Capitol building struck yesterday, because DICKSON, LEARNED & Co., of Maine, who have the contract for supplying marble, introduced about thirty workmen to cut stone. This checked work on the building for the day. Negotiations were immediately entered into by which the contract laborers were discharged, and the regular hands went to work again. This was regarded as a great triumph for the Albany stone-cutters and brick-layers, and the event was duly celebrated, last night, by a parade and torch-light procession, preceded by Kent's Band. The procession halted in front of the residence of JOHN BRIDGFORD, WM. A. RICE, WM. CASSIDY, ELI PERRY and others, and honored them with a serenade. The demonstration was a very enthusiastic one. F. W. CASSIDY, the working men's candidate for Assembly in the Second District, addressed the multitude, congratulating them upon their first triumph in the campaign, urging them to organize in the future, and greater triumphs awaited them."

The Reduction in City Railroad Fares Today.

About three weeks ago the announcement was made exclusively in the TIMES that on Oct. 1 (today) our City railroads, with the exception of the New-York and Harlem Railroad Company, would, by the repeal of the tax upon their gross receipts, be compelled by the terms of their State and City charters to lower their charges to the old standard of prices, namely, five cents for an adult, three cents for a child under ten years, fifteen cents for a trunk and ten cents for packages. The New-York and Harlem Company run their City line under the charter granted to them by the Legislature in 1831 to run a steam railroad through the State, and are allowed by it to regulate their own prices, and are, therefore, subject to no compulsion in the reduction of their present rates. It will be remembered that on the passage of this law, the public were indignant that they should be the sufferers, instead of the wealthy corporations, in the exaction of one cent more on the fare by the companies, to meet the Government requisition. Instead of these corporations suffering a loss, the imposition of the tax inured to their benefit, and now that they have no longer an excuse in the law to charge more for carrying passengers the return to the terms of their agreements. The railroad people say that they cannot carry passengers for less than five and a half cents, and that there are eight horses to a car, and that the feed of horses alone costs $5 per day, that the driver and conductor cost $5 more, and that there are additional expenses, such as shoeing, percentage of stable help, and other similar items. It is estimated that by the reduction in fare the Third-avenue Railroad will lose $200,000 per annum, the Eighth-avenue Railroad $150,000 per annum, the Second-avenue Railroad $126,000, the Sixth-avenue Railroad $112,000, the Seventh-avenue Railroad $120,000 and the Cross-town Avenue A Railroad $60,000 per annum.

Movements of the President Last Evening.

On returning from Admiral FARRAGUT'S funeral at Woodlawn Cemetery, last evening, President GRANT sought the retirement of his apartments at the Fifth-avenue Hotel, and denying himself to all visitors, rested after his uncomfortable ride through the drenching rain. Shortly after 8 o'clock he drove over to the Union League Club-house, where he had been invited by Gen. VAN ALLEN, to dine with a select party. The gentlemen present were Hon. George W. Robeson, Secretary of the Navy; Gen. Belknap, Secretary of War; Major-Gen. John A. Dix; Gen. Porter; Hon. Thomas Murphy, Gen. Webb, Hon. A. S. Cornell, Postmaster-General Creswell and Judge Sloseon. The menu was, of course, unexceptionable. After dinner, Gen. SACKETT, Mr. ASTOR, and several prominent Republicans of the City were introduced, and remained for some time in conversation with the President.

Musical.

One of the most remarkable instances of success in the history of the piano is that exhibited in the increasing demand for the testament of the manufacture of WM. KNABE & Co. Previous to the war between France and Prussia the exportation of these pianos to Europe in such large numbers tested the resistance of their manufacturers to the utmost in order to keep pace with the home orders; and it was presumed upon the breaking out of hostilities that the orders for them in this country would be served with more punctuality than heretofore, but it has proved otherwise. So popular have these instruments become, that for the fifth time the firm of WM. KNABE & Co. have been compelled to enlarge their factory and add to the large number of their skilled workmen, and their popular agents, J. BAUER & Co., of No. 649 Broadway, to double the size of their warerooms to accommodate the vast number of their pianos. Their manufactory, and sale now compel the largest factory and the most extensive ware-rooms in the United States, and the announcement is made that arrangements are so far completed as to warrant orders being filled with a dispatch heretofore unattainable.—Tribune.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

As was generally the case throughout the City, yesterday, (Sept. 30,) at the various places where public business is transacted, no sales were made at the Exchange. The sale of the property known as the Greenwich Mills, located on Greenwich and Washington streets, was advertised by ROBERTS & McGUIRE to take place, but it was adjourned until Thursday of next week. The full details of the sale made at Manamouck by DINGEE, KETCHAM & Co., on Thursday, will be found below, with the names of purchasers appended. The transaction was in all respects a most successful one. On Monday, in the weekly review of business, will be found a notice of all prominent sales to take place next week.

SEVEN PER CENT.
Consolidated Mortgage Sinking Fund Bonds.
The Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railway Company, for the purpose of providing for the payment of its several mortgage debts as they become due, has executed a mortgage to the Union Trust Company, of New-York, as trustee, upon the whole of its railroad and branches, payable on the 1st day of July, in the year 1900.
COUPON BONDS of $1,000 each, will be issued, with interest at SEVEN Per Centum per annum, payable semi-annually, on the 1st day of JANUARY and JULY in each year, and REGISTERED BONDS of $1,000, $5,000, $10,000 each, without coupons, bearing interest at SEVEN Per Centum per annum, payable quarterly, on the 1st day of JANUARY, APRIL, JULY and OCTOBER, in each year, principal and interest payable at the office of the Union Trust Company of New-York.
We call the attention of investors especially to this class of REGISTERED BONDS, which, on account of the SECURITY AFFORDED AGAINST LOSS BY ROBBERY, FIRE, OR OTHERWISE, and the PAYMENT OF QUARTERLY INTEREST, offer an investment peculiarly desirable.
A limited amount of these BONDS can be purchased at 97½, and accrued interest, upon application to

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS.
Principal and Interest Payable in Gold.
The First Mortgage Eight Per Cent. Gold Bonds of the ST. JOSEPH AND DENVER CITY RAILROAD COMPANY are for sale by the undersigned. Price, 97½ and interest. The amount of Bonds issued is $12,000,000 on 111 miles of road, of which 80 miles are completed, and the grading of the balance finished. While the iron and materials are on the track to complete it.
This road, completed and about being finished, together with rolling-stock, lands, property of every description, and franchise, is mortgaged to the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company in trust for the security of these bonds. This property has a value more than double the amount of this mortgage. The net earnings of the Company are constantly on the increase, and are in excess of the amount required to pay the interest on these bonds. The payment of the interest and principal is therefore fully secured. The bonds are in denominations of $1,000 and $500. Interest payable semi-annually in New-York, London or Frankfort on the Main. We unhesitatingly recommend them, and will furnish maps and pamphlets upon application.

POLITICAL.

LOCAL POLITICS.

Soldiers' and Sailors' General Committee—Addresses of Gen. Pleasonton and Gov. Hawley.

The Soldiers' and Sailors' General Committee held its regular weekly meeting last evening, at No. 807 Broadway, Gen. ALFRED PLEASONTON, President, in the chair.

Col. BULLOCK, on behalf of the Finance Committee, reported subscriptions to the amount of $600.

Gen. PLEASONTON said that some years ago a party was organized, and sought to govern the country, called the Know-nothing Party. That party was put down, because the American people determined that no secret party could rule in this country. The party which now seeks to rule in this State—the Democratic Party—is also a secret party, and must be put down. The charge which they now bring against Gen. WOODFORD they intended to bring against him when he was running for Lieutenant Governor, and a certain paper was about to publish it, but a certain man said if it was published he would have to come out and contradict it. That paper was the New-York World, and that man was Mayor HALL.

Gov. HAWLEY was then introduced amid hearty applause. He commenced by referring to the obsequies of the brave old Admiral FARRAGUT. In honoring him the American people honored themselves, and notwithstanding adverse circumstances, the honors of the dead were carried out in a highly creditable manner. New-York is, he continued, one of the worst governed cities on the face of the globe. This is, perhaps, owing to the fact that here congregate the outcasts of every other city upon the globe; and while he never belonged to the Know-nothing Party—always hated it—yet he must confess, all must confess, that many of those who come here have come for the good of the country which they left, self certainly not for the good of this. No candid man can deny that the last election of Gov. HOFFMAN was carried by fraud, and through this means some of those unworthy ones who come to our shores not only get office, but rise sometimes to the highest municipal offices. But New-York will yet be redeemed. Not only have her own citizens an interest in her, but all the people everywhere desire to see her Government purified and elevated. The general feeling of satisfaction with the present national Administration is evident throughout the land. Gen. GRANT may not have acted in accordance with the ideas of all on the Cuban question, yet he should have done, he took his orders from the statute-book, and observed an honest neutrality—which England did not observe toward this country during the war. Indeed, in everything the Administration has come up to the just expectations of the country. The Democratic platforms of past times invariably began and ended with declarations of love and reverence for the Constitution of the United States, but in the last platform there is a marked omission in this respect; not a word appears on the subject, and why? Because to glorify the present Constitution is to sustain and recognize all the important and vital amendments which have been made since the breaking out of the war. The soldiers of the Republic, he said in conclusion, were honored in being pitted against a corrupt and unscrupulous foe, and they must press forward to the head of the column, neither asking nor giving quarter, until the whole crew of rascals, from HOFFMAN down, are utterly routed and defeated.

Brief addresses followed by Dr. TRESCOTHS and others, after which the meeting adjourned.

Woodford and Kaufman Campaign Club of the Ninth Assembly District.

The Woodford and Kaufman Campaign Club of the Ninth Assembly District met last evening, at the Bleecker Building, Bleecker-street, near Wooster. Resolutions were offered by Mr. FARR strongly sustaining and eulogizing the nominations for State officers, which were received with loud acclamations of approval, and adopted. Messrs. FARR, MACOMBER, N. APPLETON, and the veteran Dr. YOUNG delivered addresses. These gentlemen, aided by the enlivening strains from a brass band and a speech from Major BULLARD, who volunteered from the audience, entertained the meeting until the appearance of Gen. SHARPE, who arrived at about 9½ o'clock, and was received with loud and prolonged cheers. The General stated pleasantly that the arrangements for the Farragut pageant had been so complete that many of the President's Cabinet had been drenched by the rain and put to bed. He himself had been picked up in the street and brought to the meeting in a state of extreme moisture. Speaking of Gen. GRANT, he said that he regarded the silent, forcible, and executive character of the man as equal to any emergency, and related an anecdote of him when before Petersburg, when pressure seemed to dictate to a certain General the recall of the Sixth Corps from an advanced position. "I think, General," said the General in question, riding up, "that I will recall the Sixth Corps." Said the Lieutenant-General, "On the contrary, push forward the Sixth Corps and every other corps." They were pushed forward, and that day was won. Let us follow, said General SHARPE, the example of our chosen leader, and push forward all our forces. There is now another fight, and we mean to win. If New-York is to be the battle-ground, then it shall be the battle-ground where the fight shall be decided. The question at issue is, is a pure election to be secured to the voters of this nation. Until that is done the national victories in the field will be incomplete, and the maimed soldiers still living among us, and those whose blood reddened the soil of "sacred" Virginia, are unrecompensed. Remarking upon his controversy with Mayor HALL about the census, he said that the answer to his published letter (calling upon the citizens to supply omissions and rectify such errors as were supposed to exist by Mayor HALL) was a request to reduct those districts that were enumerated by the Marshal, and make new ones of localities almost exclusively occupied by houses of ill-fame. Mayor HALL had also said in a communication to the Press, that it was impossible for 340 men to take the census honestly. The gentleman had kept the company of dishonest men so long that honesty to him had become a myth. The General concluded his remarks by stating that he was determined to do his duty, and that before the sun went down on election day in New-York there would be an honest election. At the conclusion of his remarks the meeting was adjourned.

Republican Demonstration in the Tenth District—Address by Gen. Sharpe.

An enthusiastic meeting of the Tenth Assembly District Woodford and Kaufman Campaign Club was held at the corner of Chrystie and Stanton streets, last evening, for the purpose of ratifying the Republican State nominations. A very large assemblage was present, notwithstanding the unpleasant weather. Mr. Lewis J. KIRK presided, and Messrs. GLASSER and SUMMERS acted as Secretaries. Gen. GEORGE H. SHARPE, the United States Marshal, was introduced as the principal speaker. He made an eloquent address, during which he vividly described some fresh and interesting incidents connected with the capitulation of the Confederate Army at Appomattox Court-house. He said that Gen. GRANT, the most conspicuous historal character in that scene, appeared like a modest and unassuming soldier beside his bold and distinguished adversary at the time of accepting the latter's surrender. He mentioned an incident of the famished condition of the rebel army, illustrating GRANT's magnanimous and generous character. He furnished an exposé of the contemptible manner in which the Democratic Party of this City had endeavored to throw opprobrium on the Administration and the Republican Party by falsely insinuating that the census had been taken for political purposes. He mentioned the base influences which would be used by the Democrats to overthrow the Republicans in the coming election, and urged his hearers, in consequence, to conduct the contest after the brave and upright manner displayed by the Union troops. His remarks were received with acclamations.

The meeting terminated with an address by Mr. DALY. Mr. GEORGE W. BUNGAY was expected, but was prevented from being present on account of illness.

Soldiers' and Sailors' Central Club.

A full Convention of the Soldiers' and Sailor' Delegations from branch clubs reporting to the Central Club was held at head-quarters, No. 710 Broadway, last night. Delegations reported from nineteen district clubs. The Committee of three, appointed at the last meeting to present the resolutions of harmony to the organization meeting at Twenty-second-street and Broadway, was increased to seven, and instructed to report to that organization now in session, the action of the Soldiers and Sailors' of the Central Club and its branches. An Executive Committee of one from each Club was elected. The Committee on Resolutions of Harmony reported that they had waited on the organization of which Gen. PLEASONTON is Chairman, and presented the resolutions of harmony, as instructed by the Central Club. A portion of the members from each Club was appointed to wait upon the Republican State Committee, and inform that body of the action taken by the Club, now numbering over 2,000 enrolled members.

Sixteenth Assembly District Boys in Blue.

The Sixteenth Assembly District Boys in Blue held a large meeting at No. 181 Third-avenue last evening, Lieut. BUCHER in the chair, and Sergt. WM. TOBIN, acting Secretary. After the several Committees had made their reports, Capt. CREGAN, addressing the meeting, said the soldiers of the district deserved great credit for the able manner in which they had done their work at the late primary election, for, assisted by the honest Republicans of the district, they succeeded in sending soldiers as delegates to the last Saratoga Convention. Thus, through their exertions, the district was properly represented. He moved that a committee of three be appointed to investigate the conduct of certain Republicans of the district in the last primary election. The Chair appointed Capt. CREGAN, Gen. LAWRENCE and Capt. WM. SMITH O'BRIEN as the Committee, to report as soon as possible. Gen. LAWRENCE and Col. SMITH addressed the meeting. The Club then adjourned to No. 807 Broadway, to hear Gov. HAWLEY, of Connecticut, address the General Committee of Soldiers and Sailors.

Eighth Assembly District Republican Association.

The Eighth Assembly District Republican Association met last evening at Beak's Hotel, Grand-street, the President, Mr. J. J. O'BRIEN, in the chair. Resolutions were adopted indorsing the platform of the Saratoga Convention and pledging the support of the Republicans of the district to WOODFORD and KAUFMAN at the ensuing election. The delegates to the General Committee and the officers of the Association were empowered to select a ticket for delegates to the various conventions to be chosen at the coming primary election.

The Democratic State Central Committee.

A full meeting of the Democratic State Central Committee was held in Parlor No. 289 of the St. Nicholas Hotel, yesterday afternoon. Among those present were Samuel J. Tilden, Senator Blood, Mr. Ross, Peter B. Sweeny, Mr. Walker, Mr. Magee, Mr. Cuyler, and Lieut.-Gov. Beach. A campaign club was formed to sit in this City and take measures to insure the election of the Democratic State Ticket. On this Committee are Lieut.-Gov. BEACH, SAMUEL J. TILDEN, and PETER B. SWEENY.

BROOKLYN POLITICS.

Activity of the Kings County Politicians—Ring and Anti-Ring Movements—The Candidates Seeking a Nomination—What the Republicans Are Doing—An Honest Election the Watchword—Largely Reduced Democratic Majority Expected.

The enterprise of the Brooklyn politicians has more than kept pace with the rapid increase in the size and wealth of the city. With a population, according to the recent census, nearly half as large as New-York, it has much more than half of its political corruption, its high taxation and its bad government. Since the Democracy has had control of the city the taxes have increased from one to three per cent. on each hundred dollars of the assessed property of the city, while at the same time the assessment on every man's house has been nearly doubled. Thus the City of Churches, instead of being, as it was a few years ago, a most desirable place for investment in real estate, and noted for its low rate of taxation, has come to be, under Democratic misrule, the most exorbitantly taxed city in the country and the last place where a prudent capitalist should seek investment. Brooklyn, like New-York, is cursed with a "Ring"—a Democratic Ring. Indeed, it is worse than New-York, for it has two rings—the McLoughlin Ring and the Kalbfleisch Ring. In all general schemes of plunder, however, the two Rings are practically one and act together. The chief mission of the Kalbfleisch Ring is to perpetuate the reign of MARTIN KALBFLEISCH as Mayor of Brooklyn during the term of his natural life. Every member of this Ring eats veal for breakfast, dinner and supper, and every two years, when a Mayoralty election comes round, he does nothing but blat "KALBFLEISCH" from night till morn, from morn till dewy eve. As long as this passion for veal is not interfered with, the members of the Kalbfleisch Ring are a very docile set of fellows, and are ready to do almost anything that the other Ring demands of them. There being no election for Mayor in Brooklyn this Fall, the two Rings are now harmonious, and prepared to combine their energies for an active campaign and a general raid on the tax-payers of the city. The leaders of the two Rings have been actively canvassing for the last few days, and last night they met in secret conclave and agreed upon a city and county "slate" for the coming election. The county officers, to be elected in November, are, a Register, a County Clerk, and a Surrogate—three of the fattest offices in the gift of the people of Brooklyn. For the first office the Ring decided to nominate M. C. MCLAUGHLIN, the leader of the gang, who claims the title of "BOSS MCLAUGHLIN," in imitation of his New-York prototype, BOSS TWEED. For County Clerk they decided to trot out GEO. HERMAN, and for Surrogate, WM. G. VERDER. They also decided to nominate THOS. KINSELLA, a leading man of the McLaughlin Ring, and at present one of the Board of Education, for Congress from the Second Congressional District, and to renominate Gen. SLOCUM from the Third District. There are also nine members of the Assembly to be elected from Kings County at the November election, but the candidates for these places have not yet been definitely agreed upon. JACOBS, MOSELEY, CULLEN, DROLL and perhaps one or two other Democratic members of the last Assembly will doubtless get a renomination, but the remainder are not so sure of it. The Brooklyn Ring, which has not heretofore been on the best of terms with its rival band of plunderers, the Tammany Ring, on this side of the river, is said to have lately formed an alliance with them, offensive and defensive, by which both Rings expect to be able to afford mutual aid and assistance to each other in carrying out their nefarious schemes. Tammany tendered the olive branch to the McLaughlin Ring, by making DR WITT, the Brooklyn Corporation Counsel, temporary Chairman of their convention of pickpockets at Rochester. Gov. HOFFMAN had already paved the way for this alliance, by appointing DR WITT a referee to take testimony against District-Attorney MORRIS, who has had the courage to fight the Brooklyn Ring and show up their election frauds.

The Governor hoped, by the appointment, as referee, of a member of the McLaughlin Ring, and an enemy of the District-Attorney, not only to pave the way for an alliance between the New-York and Brooklyn Rings, but to frighten Mr. MORRIS into a capitulation with the scoundrels whose rascality he had so fearlessly exposed. He appears to have succeeded in the first part of his scheme, for MCLAUGHLIN and McLaughlin Ring, but the last part is likely to prove a more difficult task. District-Attorney MORRIS is not a man to be easily frightened. He has done nothing but his simple duty to the people of Brooklyn, and the people stand ready to back him, not only against the Brooklyn and New-York Rings, but against their Gubernatorial creature, JOHN T. HOFFMAN. There is an in Brooklyn, which is growing stronger and stronger every day, and ere long it will sweep from power the corrupt gang of thieves that have so long plundered the city Treasury. The Anti-Ring movement is not yet fully organized, but in Brooklyn, as in New-York, but several meetings have been held, which were largely attended by the solid men and tax-payers of the city, and the prospect is that in a few days a formidable organization will be effected that will make itself felt on election day.

WHAT THE REPUBLICANS ARE DOING.

The Republicans of Kings County are wide awake, and are working with an energy that has not been exhibited by the party in that city for years past. Meetings of the Executive Committee are held nightly, and preparations are being made for a more thorough and detailed canvass of every ward and election district of the city than was ever before made. They are unanimous in their determination to have an honest vote and an honest count at the November election. The law of Congress for the protection of the ballot-box against repeaters and fraudulent canvassers will be executed at all hazards and to the letter. They have the advantage over New-York in having a District-Attorney for the County, as well as for the General Government, who is not afraid to do the control of the Ring, and is not afraid to do his duty.

The Brooklyn repeaters will have a hard road to travel; if they escape Scylla, they will fall into Charybdis. If District-Attorney TRACEY don't nab them, District-Attorney MORRIS will. The new Election law gives the Republicans a representation of inspectors and canvassers in nearly all the election districts in the city, and in some of them they will have a majority in the Boards. Last year, by the casting vote of Mayor KALBFLEISCH in the Board of Supervisors, the Democratic Party was given, in violation of law, all the inspectors and canvassers throughout the city; and the result was a majority of nearly 10,000 fraudulent votes. If they poll one-tenth of that number this year, they will do it at their peril.

The Republicans have not fully agreed upon their ticket for county officers yet, but the probability is that SAMUEL MADDEN, the only Republican member of the last Assembly from Brooklyn, will be nominated for Register; JAMES MCLEAR for County Clerk, and PETER OSTRANDER for Surrogate. For Congress ELIAS R. DUTCHER is talked of for the Second District, and E. D. WEBSTER for the Third District. There is a fair prospect that the Republicans will gain one member of Congress from Brooklyn, and two or three members of the Assembly. In the Fifth Assembly District, where WM. W. GOODRICH was elected last year, but counted out by the Ring, the Republicans are sure to elect their candidate. Mr. BURNETT, of the Williamsburgh Times, who was also defeated by fraudulent votes last year, is pretty sure to be elected. In the Second District, which is strongly Republican, but which has been represented for two years past by A. G. CULLEN, a Democrat, Alderman A. E. THORNE is spoken of as the Republican candidate, and, if he consents to run, is sure to be elected. The Republicans count on not less than four members of the Assembly from Kings County, this year, and they expect to reduce the Democratic majority on the general ticket nearly one-half from what it was last year and the year before. If the honest Democrats of the city who are opposed to the rule of the Ring do their duty, the whole McLaughlin ticket can easily be defeated.

The Charge Against Gov. Woodford—His Reply.

Gen. WOODFORD, in his recent speech at Albany, thus effectually answered the "charges" which have recently been brought against him:

During this canvass very serious charges have been made affecting my personal integrity. I frankly say that for myself I shall make no answer to them, for during the fourteen years since I came of age, and during much of which I have been in public life, I have learned that when calumny and slander have falsely assailed me, I could safely leave my good name to the sure defense of my friends and neighbors, and even to those of my opponents who love fair play and manhood better than detraction and villification. But you and I know why these charges are made. They are made because the Democratic leaders and organs know that on a canvass of fair issues, with a fair vote and an honest count, they would be swept from power, and the ticket which I am honored in leading would be elected. [Cheers.] For this reason they are defaming me, with the hope of covering up the true issues. [Cries of "That's so."] For this reason I make this proposition: If JOHN T. HOFFMAN, upon an examination of the charges against me, will write a letter to my father them himself and will meet me on this platform or on any other within this state during the canvass, and present his allegations and proofs, I will demonstrate that the charges are false and that he is mistaken. [Loud and long applause.] I heartily thank you for this honest ovation. I accept it as a happy augury of victory. I read in the address of my competitor in response to his serenade the other evening here at Albany, that his majority would be counted, where the thermometer had ranged during the heated days of Summer, among the nine hundreds. I sometimes hinted by over-zealous partisans that the Democratic majorities were counted in a hot latitude, but you have never had official and Executive authority for the statement before. Down in New-York and Brooklyn, we have come to understand the full significance and importance of the phrase; and I tell you to night that we shall so reduce the Democratic majorities that, if you of the interior do your duty, we shall win a glorious victory. And now, entering with zeal upon the contest, let us rally for honest, pure and truly democratic government.

GENERAL NOTES.

Gov. HARRIMAN, of New-Hampshire, is to speak at Middletown, in this State, on the 6th inst.

Gov. SAUNDERS and Mr. THAYER are the candidates for United States Senator from Nebraska.

Hon. N. B. JUDD publishes a card in the Chicago Evening Post, announcing that he is not a candidate for a nomination for Congress.

Hon. JAMES SPEED, Attorney-General during Mr. LINCOLN's Administration, is the nominee of the Republican Party in the Fifth Kentucky District.

F. A. THITLE, Republican candidate for Governor of Nevada, is a young lawyer of Pennsylvania, who, after admission to the bar, went to the Pacific coast and earned a leading position in his profession.

"We hope," says the Springfield Republican, "to see a full delegation at the State (Massachusetts) Convention, particularly from the western counties; as if there were to be the contest that three weeks ago seemed imminent. There will be a contest over the platform of the party, as there ought to be; and it is by no means certain that the factions will submit quietly to defeat in the matter of nominations."

In reviewing the probable result of the coming election in Pennsylvania, the Philadelphia Ledger says: "Except among the candidates and the expectants of office, under those that are successful, there is a remarkable want of interest in the election that is to take place on the 11th of next month. The people of both parties happen, for the time, to have their attention greatly occupied with the European war, and the professional politicians, with their candidates, are 'running' the canvass. There being no important State officer to be chosen is another circumstance that adds to the indifference of the public as to the result, and there is great danger that the number of voters will be very small, and that some of the successful candidates will not really be the choice of a majority of the men qualified to vote."

DELIBERATE MURDER.

A Colored Man Shot and Instantly Killed by Another Colored Man—The Assassin in Custody—A Feud of Long Standing.

A feud that has for a considerable time past existed between two colored residents of the Eighth Ward, was last evening ended by the death of one of the parties at the hands of the other. The actors in the tragedy are JOHN THOMAS, of No. 13 Worth-street, and WALTER JOHNSON, of York-st. The men had, on one or more occasions previously, come to blows. Early last evening THOMAS met some acquaintances of JOHNSON's in Broome-street, near Thompson, and asked them if the latter had been seen there that evening. He was told that he had been seen late in the afternoon, and would probably be in the neighborhood during the evening. It was understood by those with whom he conversed that there would be trouble between the men if they met.

Soon after 9 o'clock, JOHNSON, while in front of No. 511 Broome-street, near Laurens-street, was met by THOMAS. A few words passed between them, when the colloquy was ended by THOMAS' drawing a revolver from his pocket and shooting JOHNSON in the left breast, the ball passing through the heart. The wounded man staggered a few steps and fell dead. THOMAS threw his pistol into a vacant house and attempted to escape. He had gone but a short distance when he was overtaken by Officer HARRY, of the Eighth Precinct, arrested, and taken to the Prince-street Police Station. In the Station-house he declared he knew nothing of the occurrence. The body of the dead man was removed to the Station-house. GRACE ANN THOMPSON, a colored woman, living at No. 41 Mulberry-street, near Broome-street, one of the party of colored people who congregated in and around the Station-house after the affray, informed Capt. MCDERMOTT that she saw THOMAS and JOHNSON conversing in Broome-street, between Laurens and Thompson streets. She heard words passed, "I hear you have been in the habit of going around reporting that you intended to kill me. If there is any trouble between us, let us go and settle it." He then, she says, asked a colored lad named CHURCHILL to go with them. THOMAS replied, "I will settle your head off," and placed his hand in his pocket. JOHNSON asked him what he had placed his hand in his pocket for. Without saying a word, THOMAS drew his pistol and fired, with the result mentioned. THOMAS, when questioned relative to himself, said that he was formerly employed on the California steamer Henry Chauncey, where he made the acquaintance of the deceased. For the past six weeks he has been employed as cook on the yacht Sylvia. He is a widower, aged thirty-nine years, and has a daughter aged thirteen years at No. 13 Worth-street. The deceased was a waiter, was aged thirty-five years, and was employed in an up-town Club-house.

The Hudson River Rowing Regatta—A Charge of Unfair Boating.

A meeting of delegates of the Hudson Amateur Rowing Association was held at the Gulick Club-house, foot of Christopher-street, at 8 o'clock last evening, pursuant to a call of Commodore BEN. F. BRADY, for the purpose of investigating certain charges preferred in a letter from Mr. WILKINS, of the Atalanta Boat Club, in which it was claimed that the decision against that Club in the last regatta in favor of the Gulick was an unjust one; that there was a premeditated design to give them the "wash" of the judges' boat, and that the Commodore influenced the judges in their decisions.

Commodore BRADY, in a communication to the Board of Delegates, requested that a committee be appointed to investigate these charges, and at the meeting last night action was taken upon the matter.

The second of the charges was denied on oath by Mr. RUSSEL WITHERS, who had charge of the judge's boat in the regatta, and the fullest investigation was demanded by him. A committee, composed of Mr. TUTTHILL, of the Atlantic Club; Mr. KEELER, of the Vesper, and Mr. WITHERS, of the Atalanta, was appointed to make a thorough investigation of the charges, and the meeting adjourned.

The Equinoctial Storm.

The equinoctial rain-storm washed the streets thoroughly, yesterday. It began to rain at about 3 o'clock in the morning. The storm continued, with brief intermissions, all day. The only railroad detention, in consequence, reported is that of the Erie train, carrying the United States mail, due at 10½ P. M., which at a late hour had not arrived. The following were the indications of the thermometer in the shade, yesterday, at the hours mentioned, at WILLIAM P. BYRNE's Mineral Water "Spa," No. 102 Broadway: 6 A. M., 66°; 8 A. M., 65½°; 10 A. M., 66½°; noon, 66½°; 2 P. M., 66½°; 4 P. M., 67½°; 6 P. M., 66°; 8 P. M., 66½°; 10 P. M., 66°; 12 P. M., 70°.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

NEW-YORK.

Rev. ROBT. CAMERON, recently of Toronto University, has accepted a call from the Seventeenth-street Open Communion Baptist Church, of this City, and will commence his labors tomorrow, the first Sunday of October.

The ferry-boat Jersey City, of the Cortlandt-street line, met with a serious accident upon its arrival at the Cortlandt-street slip at 10½ last night. The pilot evidently miscalculated his rate of speed, and came into the slip with a terrific crash, striking first one side of the slip, and then bounding to the other. The boat careened, and the side on which is situated the ladies' cabin passed under the bridge. The railings of the ferry-boat were broken up, and splinters were thrown about in an alarming manner. The "balancing-log" of the bridge was broken, and the crowd of passengers standing upon the bridge were thrown down, and two men, whose names are unknown, were slightly injured. Upon the boat the passengers by the Philadelphia train were urging, and they were, according to custom, crowded forward at the chains. Fortunately, however, they ran back, and none were hurt.

An enthusiastic meeting of the friends of free elections was held last evening at the hall in One Hundred and Nineteenth-street, corner of Third-avenue. There was a very large attendance, but in consequence of the wet weather the President, Mr. E. O. R. FORD, asked for an adjournment. This was agreed to and the assembly separated to meet next Monday evening, at the same place, at 8 o'clock. The Association elected the following officers: Wm. HAYES, President; E. O. N. FORD, Vice-President, and JAS. MCKENNA, Secretary.

At the meeting of the New-York Historical Society, to be held on Tuesday evening, a paper will be read by Mr. BENSON J. LOSSING. His lecture on "Art," last Winter, was every where received with applause, and it has been asked for by many literary societies to be delivered during the coming Winter. Mr. LOSSING has prepared a new lecture on "Chivalry."

The Educational Classes for 1870-71 of the Young Men's Christian Association are arranged as follows, beginning the first week in October: German—Prof. KUETZELAU; Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. French—Prof. DAVID CORRIGLIOD; Tuesdays and Thursdays. Writing—Prof. T. F. DOLBEAU; Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Vocal Music—Prof. A. HOLDEN; Fridays. Elementary Classes in Vocal Music and Book-keeping will be organized hereafter.

Today, the books for the increased capital stock of the Security Bank of the City of New-York are opened at its banking-house. It commenced business at No. 819 Broadway in May last. The call for a large portion of the new stock reduces its Board of Directors to call on the public for the remainder of half a million.

The funeral of Gen. CHARLES YATES, who died Thursday evening, took place, yesterday, at 3 P. M., at his late residence, No. 162 East Fifty-ninth-street. The remains were taken to Albany for interment.

The Department of Public Parks announces that, if the weather be fine, there will be music by the Central Park Band in Central Park, today, commencing at 3½ o'clock P. M.

BROOKLYN.

Rev. T. L. CUYLER will preach a funeral discourse upon the life and character of the late JOSEPH HOXIE, to-morrow morning, at the Lafayette-avenue Church.

NEW-JERSEY.

The Irving Friendship Association, of Irvington, N. J., gave a grand reception, on the 18th ult., to Mr. and Mrs. GEORGE W. CROSS, on their arrival home from their wedding tour to Niagara Falls. The reception was held in Irving Hall, at Irvington. The hall was handsomely decorated with landscape views and beautiful pictures, among which were the portraits of Mr. and Mrs. DURAND, parents of the bride.

THOMAS BURNS, the gate-keeper at the Varick-street crossing of the New-Jersey Railroad, in Jersey City, was struck by the 5:30 train yesterday afternoon and seriously injured. His forehead was badly cut, and he was bruised about the limbs. Dr. REAVES attended the man, and he was removed to his home at No. 149 Prospect-street.

More than a week ago, a man named PORTER died in the Twelfth Ward of Jersey City quite suddenly, and shortly after death his body became almost entirely blackened. For some reason nothing was said about it at the time, and the Coroner was not notified. It appears now that PORTER and his wife had lived quite unhappily together—so much so, indeed, that she had taken the preliminary steps to secure a divorce. The peculiar circumstances connected with the husband's death are now recalled, and the affair will be investigated.

Jerusalem Chapter, No. 24 Royal Arch Masons, was instituted at Plainfield Thursday night by the Grand Chapter of the State. The following Chapters were represented: Washington, of Elizabeth; Union, of Newark; Harmony, No. 5, Mount Vernon, No. 8, and Scotts, of Newark.

An insane man, named JAMES CUMMINGS, created quite a disturbance in Newark Thursday afternoon by throwing a gun and threatening to use it on those with whom he came in contact. He was captured by the Police and locked up for safe keeping.

The census returns in South Orange place the total population at 3,971. The oldest male inhabitant is eighty-three years of age, and the oldest female eighty-nine years old.

A census of the school-children of Hudson County shows an increase of 6,154 over last year. Jersey City has 34,824 children of an age suitable for attending school; Hoboken, 8,054, and the entire county, 57,856.

The entire Fire Department of Elizabeth will parade on Wednesday, Oct. 5. After marching through the principal streets, they will be reviewed by the Mayor.

THOMAS CASSON and PATRICK BOYLE, boys confined in the Middlesex County Jail, at New-Brunswick, escaped yesterday by climbing over the wall of the jail-yard.
